College of PHYSICIANS

Is a noble edifice situated in Warwick Lane. The grand entrance is under an octangular theatre, finishing in a dome, with a cone on the top making a lantern to it. The inside is elegant, finely enlightened, and very capacious. This was built by Sir Christopher Wren. The central building is the design of Inigo Jones, and contains the library, and other rooms of state and convenience. The whole front is decorated with pilasters of the Ionic and Corinthian Orders; and on one side over the door-case is the Statue of King Charles II. and on the other that of Sir John Cutler.

This is a building of great delicacy, and deserves to be considered among the noblest ornaments of this city; but being situated in a narrow and dirty part of the lane, can never be seen to advantage.

QUEEN'S PALACE.

It would be unpardonable to omit the mention of the famous Cartoons by Raphael, which have lately been removed hither from Hampton Court,

These are seven pieces from sacred history, taken from the New Testament, and were designed as patterns for tapestry. They are painted on paper, with great delicacy and beauty, in water-colours.

The story of the first is the miraculous draught of fishes, Luke v. In this Christ appears in the boat with an air of divine gentleness; the large fowl placed on the shore in the fore-ground, have a sea wildness in them, and prevent the heaviness which that part of the picture would otherwise have had, by breaking the parallel lines that would have been made by the boat, and the base of the picture.—Raphael has, indeed, made a boat too little to hold the figures he has placed in it: but had he made it large enough for those figures, the picture would have been all boat; and to have made his figures small enough for a vessel of that size would have rendered them unsuitable to the rest of the set, and less considerable.

The second is the Delivery of the Keys, John xxi. and has received an injury. As this is the appearance of Our Saviour after the Resurrection; present authority, late suffering, humility and majesty, command and love, are finely mixed in his divine aspect. He is wrapped only in one large piece of white drapery; his his left arm and breast are bare, and part of his legs naked. The figures of the eleven apostles all express the same passion of admiration, but discover it differently according to their characters. Peter receives his master's orders on his knees, with an admiration mixed with a more particular attention; the beloved disciple has, in his countenance, wonder lost in love: the last personage, whose back only is seen, one would fancy to be Thomas, whose perplexed concern could not be better drawn than by this acknowledgment of the difficulty to describe it. The mixture of tints in the draperies all together produce a wonderful harmony.

The third is the Miracle of healing the Cripple at the beautiful gate of the Temple. Acts iii. All the figures are admirably performed.

The fourth is the death of Ananias. Acts v. Here is the greatest dignity in the Apostles; they are however only a subordinate group, because the principal action relates to the criminal; thither the eye is directed by almost all the figures; what a horror and reverence is visible in the whole assembly on this mercenary man's falling down dead!

The fifth is Elymas the sorcerer struck with blindness. Acts xii. His whole body expresses his being blind. How admirably are terror and astonishment expressed in the people present, and how variously according to their several characters! What grace and majesty is seen in the great Apostle of the Gentiles denouncing vengeance on the Sorcerers! The Proconsul has a greatness and a grace superior to his character; equal to what one might suppose in a Cæsar.

The sixth is the sacrifice to Paul and Barnabas by the people of Lycaonia. Acts xiv. The occasion of this is finely told; the man healed of his lameness, to express his sense of the divine power which appeared in the Apostles, and to shew it to be him, not only has a crutch under his feet on the ground, but an old man takes up the lappet of his garment, and looks upon the limb he remembers to have been crippled, expressing great devotion and amazement; which are sentiments seen in the other, with a mixture of joy.—The group of the ox and popa are taken from a bas relievo in the Villa de Medici.

The seventh is St. Paul preaching to the Athenians, Acts xvii.—The divine orator is the chief figure; but with what wonderful art are almost all the different tempers of mankind represented in the audience! This picture is conducted with the greatest judgement. The attitude of St. Paul is as fine as possible, pointing to the statue of Mercury, alluding to their idolatry; latry; for the men of Lystra would call him by that name. The little drapery thrown over the apostle's shoulder, and hanging down to his waist, poises the figure which otherwise would seem ready to tumble forwards.

There were in all twelve of these pieces; two are in the possession of the French king: the king of Sardinia has two of the others; and one belonged to a gentleman in England, who pledged it for a sum of money: when the person who had taken this valuable deposit found it was to be redeemed, he greatly damaged the drawing, for which the gentleman brought his action in Westminster Hall.

ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL

Is esteemed the second in Europe for beauty and grandeur. The general form of it is a long cross: the walls are wrought in rustic, and adorned by two rows of coupled pilasters, one over the other; the lower Corinthian, and the upper Composite. The spaces between the arches of the windows, and the architraves are filled with a great variety of curious enrichments.

The west front is graced with a most magnificent portico, a noble pediment, and two stately

stately turrets. At this end there is a noble flight of steps of black marble, that extend the whole length of the portico, which consists of twelve lofty Corinthian columns below, and eight of the Composite order above; all coupled and fluted. The upper series supports a noble pediment crowned with its acroteria. In this pediment is a very elegant representation in bas relief of the Conversation of St. Paul, executed by Mr. Bird. On the apex of the pediment is a magnificent figure of St. Paul, with St. Peter on his right, and St. James on his left. The four Evangelists, with their proper emblems, are placed on the front of the towers.

To the North Portico is an ascent by twelve circular steps of black marble; and its dome is supported by six large Corinthian columns. Upon the dome is a large and well-proportioned urn finely ornamented with festoons; and over this is a pediment supported by pilasters in the wall, in the face of which is the royal arms, with the regalia, supported by angels. On the top, at proper distances, are placed the statues of five of the Apostles.

The South Portico answers to the North, and like the other, is a dome supported by six noble Corinthian columns: but as the ground is considerably lower on this than on the other side of the church, the ascent is by a flight of 25 steps. This portico has also a pediment above, in which is a Phoenix rising out of the flames, with the motto RESURGAM underneath it, as an emblem of the rebuilding the church after the fire. On this side of the building are likewise five statues.

At the East end is a sweep, or circular projection for the altar, finely ornamented with the orders, and with sculpture, particularly a noble piece in honour of his Majesty King William III.

The dome, which rises in the centre of the whole appears extremely grand. Twenty feet above the roof of the church is a circular range of thirty-two columns, with niches placed exactly against others within; these are terminated by their entablature, which supports a handsome gallery adorned with a balustrade. Above these columns is a range of pilasters, with windows between; and from the entablature of these the diameter decreases very considerably; and two feet above that it is again contracted. From this part the external sweep of the dome begins, and the arches meet at fifty-two feet above. On the summit of the dome is an elegant balcony; and from its centre rises the lanthorn adorned with Corinthian columns; the whole is terminated by a ball, with a cross rising from it, both gilt.

In

In the area of the grand West front, on a pedestal of exquisite workmanship, stands a statue of Queen Anne, in white marble, with proper decorations. The figures on the base represent Britannia with her spear, Gallia with a crown in her lap, Hibernia with her harp, and America with her bow. These, and the colossal statues with which the church is adorned, were all done by Mr. Hill, who was chiefly employed in the decorations.

On ascending the steps at the West end, we find three doors ornamented on the top with bas relief; the middle door, which is by far the largest, is cased with white marble, and over it is a fine piece of bas relief, in which St. Paul is represented preaching to the Bereans. On entering this door, the mind is struck by the nobleness of the vista; an arcade supported by lofty and massy pillars on each hand, divides the church into the body and two isles, and the view is terminated by the altar at the extremity of the choir. On one hand is the consistory, and on the other the morning prayer chapel.

Proceeding forward you come to the large cross isle between the North and South porticos; over which is the cupola, under the centre of which is fixed a brass plate, round which the pavement is beautifully variegated.

The

The organ gallery is supported by eight Corinthian columns of blue and white marble; and the choir has on each side thirty stalls, besides the Bishop's throne on the South, and the Lord Mayor's on the North side.

The reader's desk is an enclosure of very fine brass rails gilt. The altar-piece is adorned with four fluted pilasters painted and veined with gold in imitation of Lapis Lazuli, with their capitals double gilt. The floor within the rails is paved with porphyry.

From the Whispering Gallery above, the beautiful marble pavement of the church, and the paintings in the cupola, are seen to the greatest advantage. Sir Christopher Wren designed to have beautified the inside of the cupola with Mosaic work, but in this, as in many other points, the great architect was overruled. It is, however, decorated by Sir James Thornhill, with the principal passages of St. Paul's life in eight compartments, viz. his conversion; his punishing Elymas the forcerer with blindness; his preaching at Athens; his curing the poor cripple at Lystra, and the reverence paid him there by the priests of Jupiter as a God; his conversion of the goaler; his preaching at Ephesus, and the burning of the books of magic in consequence of the miracles he wrought there; his trial before Agrippa; and his shipwreck on the island Melita, with the miracle of the Viper.

This noble fabric was compleated in thirty-five years, the last stone being laid in 1711. The fine model which Sir Christopher first caused to be made, and which was rejected, is still to be seen here; and it is a great pity that what was performed as the utmost exertion of this great architect's abilities should be suffered to run to decay.

The outside, and particularly the front of St. Pauls, is generally acknowledged to be much superior to St. Peter's at Rome. The two towers at the West end are elegant, and the portico finely marks the principal entrance. The Loggia crowned with a pediment, make in the whole a fine shape; whereas St. Peter's is a straight line without any break. The dome is extremely magnificent, and by rising higher than that at Rome is seen to more advantage on a near approach. The inside falls far short of St. Peter's; the architect not being permitted to decorate it as he intended.

SHAFTESBURY

SHAFTESBURY HOUSE,

Now the London Lying-in Hospital, on the East side of Aldersgate Street, was built by the masterly hand of Inigo Jones. This edifice is of brick ornamented with stone, in a noble and elegant taste. The front to the street is adorned with Ionic pilasters; the door is arched, and has a balcony supported by scrolls.

SOMERSET HOUSE,

On the South Side of the Strand,

Was built about 1549, by the Duke of Somerset, uncle to Edward VI. The front towards the Strand is adorned with columns and other decorations, which are much defaced by time. This front, together with the quadrangle, seem to have been the first attempts to restore the ancient architecture in England. In the middle a handsome gate opens into the quadrangle adorned with a piazza perhaps more in taste than any other in the kingdom of the same antiquity, and the whole building on this side has an air of grandeur. But the most beautiful front is that towards the garden, part of which has been new built, with a fine piazza, and lofty lofty apartments over it. This part is, however, irregular, and left unfinished, some of the old building being still standing on that side. The new part contains the royal apartments built by Inigo Jones, and was, no doubt, only a part of his design, the stairs and gate to the water shewing where he intended the centre.

Colonel SOTHBY, in Bloomsbury Square,

Among others, has the following pictures :

A small picture of Sir Thomas More's Family, painted in the neatest manner in miniature; on the right hand the portraits of Mr. More and his Wife, Sir Thomas's Grandson for whom it was drawn, and their two sons, with their garden at Chelsea behind, and a view of London. The painter of this exquisite little piece is unknown; it has been supposed to be of Hans Holbein.

Three Royal Pair dancing in a meadow, with a magnificent building at a distance. They are Henry VIII. and Anne Boleyn; and his sisters Margaret Q. of Scots; and Mary Q. of France, with their second husbands Archibald Douglas and Charles Brandon. This picture is said to have been begun in France by Janet, and to have been been retouched by Holbein. There is some doubt about the persons intended to be represented.

Isaac Oliver's Head, by Himself. Bold and admirably painted.

A Magdalen. By Isaac Oliver.

Sir Benjamin Rudyard ; a Head. By John Hoskins.

ST. STEPHEN's, Walbrook,
behind the Mansion-House,

Was erected by the great Sir Christopher Wren, and is esteemed, by many, his master-piece. It is thought that Italy itself cannot produce a modern structure equal to this in taste, proportion, elegance, and beauty. At entering it has a very striking effect ; every part coming at once to the eye. In short, it is one of the happy productions of Sir Christopher Wren's great genius without a strict observance of the rules of art.

JAMES WEST, Esq.

A most curious picture of Henry V. and his Family. This piece is evidently painted in oil colours. It was an altar-piece at Shene, and
in

in all probability was painted by order of Henry VII. for the chapel in his palace there. It is painted on several boards joined, and is 4 feet 3 inches high, by 4 f. 6 inch. wide.

For a full description of this Picture, see Mr. Walpole's Anecdotes, Vol. I. p. 31, where it is also engraved.

Henry VIII. sitting under a canopy supported by pillars, and delivering the sword to Prince Edward. On the right hand of the king stand Philip and Mary; Mars is coming in behind them. Queen Elizabeth, too large in proportion, stands forward on the other side, and leads Peace and Plenty, whose faces were portraits of the Countesses of Shrewsbury and Salisbury. Walp. p. 134.

Lady Carlisle; by Vandyke.

Marquis of Montrose, Prince Rupert, and Prince Maurice; by Gerard Honthorst.

O K E O V E R,

IN DERBYSHIRE,

The Seat of a Family that bears that Name.

HERE is to be found the famous Holy Family by Raphael, over the chimney in the dining room. The drapery of the Virgin is red and blue, with a veil thrown over her shoulders through which the drapery is visible: her head is turned on one side; Christ is in her lap, naked and smiling. St. John has a skin

loosely

loosely tied about his loins covering him behind. Elizabeth is in brown drapery, and forms a good contrast to the elegance of the Virgin. Joseph appears in the back ground. The air of the Virgin's Head, the child, and the drapery in the cradle are admirable. The picture has, undoubtedly, been repaired, and much of it repainted.

In the same room are several other pictures; as Two Landscapes, with Ruins and Figures, on copper. By Fergus.

Venus and Cupid, by Titian.

A Flower-piece, by Van Huisum.

Two Sea-pieces, by Wandewelde.

ALL SOULS COLLEGE.

IN the Chapel is an Assumption-piece of the Founder, by Sir James Thornhill; with urns on each side, representing, in their bas-reliefs, the institution of the two Sacraments. Between the windows on each side are figures of saints in chiaro oscuro bigger than the life: the screen is constructed by Sir Christopher Wren.

In

In the Hall are portraits of Chicheley the Founder, Colonel Codrington, and Sir Nathanael Lloyd. At the high table is an historical piece by Sir James Thornhill; the subject is the finding of the Law, 2 Kings xxii. 11. Over the chimney is a bust of the Founder; on one side a bust of Linacre, and on the other of John Leland.

They have the portrait of John of Gaunt painted on Glass, with other portraits of that time.

In the magnificent Library is a statue of Colonel Codrington in the recess, which is in the middle. Over the gallery a series of bronzes, consisting of vases and busts, is interchangeably disposed.

C H R I S T - C H U R C H.

In an old Chapter-house are two portraits admirably painted and in the most perfect preservation, which certainly belonged to Henry VII. the one an elderly, the other a young man, both in black bonnets, and large as life. On the back of the one is this mark No. I-R 22, on the other No. I-R 25. In the catalogue of King Henry's pictures in the augmentation office No.

25, is Frederick Duke of Saxony, No. 26 is Philip Archduke of Austria; in all probability these very pictures. They have a great deal of the manner of Holbein, certainly not inferior to it, but are rather more free and bold. Whoever painted the pictures, they are two capital portraits, Mr. Walpole.

In a butler's pantry within, is an excellent portrait of a man in a cap, with a dish under his arm: I suppose some old butler of the College.

In the Cathedral on a window is an excellent piece of painted glass by Isaac Oliver. The story is St. Peter delivered out of prison. The drawing and execution are good, but the colouring is in some parts faint. Underneath Oliver Æt. 84. an. 1700, pinxit deditque.

The East window is painted by William Price, senior, from a design of Sir James Thornhill, representing the Epiphany.

In the Library, upon a pedestal in a recess on the N. side, is placed an admirable whole length statue of Mr. Locke formerly a student of this house, by Rysbrack.

But the fine collection of Pictures lately left the College by General Guise, will make these trifles overlooked. The following is a Catalogue of them as they were disposed at the General's.

General

General GUISE's, Pictures.

A piece of architecture, rather large, adorned with many small figures very graceful. The architecture, by Viviani, the figures, in his best manner, by Sebastiano Ricci.

Two heads in one picture, a little smaller than life. They exhibit two caricaturas, by Spagnoletto.

A portrait of some Spanish nobleman half length, after the life, nobly painted and well preserved, by Moriglio.

A head with part of the shoulders : it seems to be the portrait of some great man, by Titiano, in his first manner.

A picture with many figures 2 feet high, representing Solomon's judgment. The invention, disposition, and colouring are equally wonderful, by Pasqualini Romano, disciple of Andrea Sacchi.

A representation of our Saviour on his way to Calvary. The figures almost as big as the life, by Andrea Mantegna. Mantegna was Corregio's master, and this picture was in the collection of Charles I.

The rape of the Sabines. A picture of great merit both for invention and colouring, the author unknown.

A figure as big as the life, of particular beauty, exhibiting St. Jerom fervently praying, by Domenichino.

A head with part of the shoulders, as big as the life. It is the portrait, painted by himself, of Francesco Mola.

A small sketch representing a sacrifice, with the temple of Diana. The figures are many and wonderfully well disposed, by Pietro da Cortona.

A small sketch in light and shadow, with many figures representing a Saint, ready to suffer martyrdom, drawn with great liveliness and taste, by Ant. Vandyke.

A small octagonal picture on a black stone, representing our Saviour carried to the sepulchre, by Annibal Caracci.

A Landscape with figures 1 foot high, representing the Martyrdom of St. Peter Martyr. The figures, by Agostino Caracci. The landscape, by Gobbo de Caracci.

A Sketch,

A Sketch, representing a victorious Prince carried in triumph. The figures are many, a foot and a half high, and many of them allegorical, by Giordano d'Anversa.

A large piece of Architecture, with figures. In his first manner, by Nicol. Poussin.

A picture, containing some half lengths a little bigger than the life, exhibiting Faith that gives her sword to a General, by Pietro della Vecchia.

The portrait of a General, half length, a little bigger than the life. It is believed to be a copy from Titian, by Luca Giordano.

Apollo and Marfyas. The figures about 3 f. high, by Sebastiano Ricci.

A large picture, containing some half lengths as big as the life, and representing the taking of Our Saviour in the Garden, by Giacomo da Bassano.

A Piece, containing many half length figures as big as the life, representing the Prodigal Son received by his father. A famous performance of Guercino da Cento.

Sophonisba dying with grief in the arms of her damsel, on receiving doleful news. The figures are half lengths as big as the life. A celebrated piece, by Domenichino.

Our Saviour known by the two Disciples in the breaking of the Bread; the figures bigger than the life, by Lodovico Caracci.

The Flight into Egypt; the figures as big as the life. A noble work, by Guido Reni.

The heads of St. Andrew and St. Paul, bigger than the life; a valuable performance, by Andrea Sacchi.

St. Elizabeth, with St. John, when a babe, musing on a cross made of reeds; the figures smaller than the life. A renowned Piece, by Leonardo da Vinci.

Judith holding Holcfernes's head; a half length, very beautiful, by Francesco Salviati.

Our Saviour's Nativity; the figures a little more than one foot high, finished with extreme diligence. A rare work, by Baldassare Peruzzi.

Our

Our Lady contemplating her babe. The figures about 2 f. 6 inch. Wonderfully well done after Correggio's manner, by Francesco Mazzuoli, commonly called Parmigianino.

A half length, as big as the life, representing a naked Woman, by Titiano.—It is thought that this is the portrait of the woman that was Titian's model, when he drew the famous Venus now existing in the room called La Tribuna, in the Medicean Gallery at Florence.

Our Saviour taken down from the Cross. The figures a little more than one foot high, by Daniele da Volterra.—This appears to be the sketch from which Daniel made the large famous picture, that is now in one of the chapels of the church called La Trinita de Monit, at Rome.

A Holy Family; the figures one foot high, compleatly finished, by Annibal Caracci.

Our Saviour crowned with Thorns; the figures a foot and a half high. One of the best works in his first manner, by Correggio.

Our Lady with the two babes Jesus and John laying hold of a lamb, and two angels devoutly looking looking on them, by Francesco Mazzuoli, called Parmigianino. It was formerly in Charles the First's collection.

Socrates and Alcibiades; half lengths of about a foot and a half, by Giorgione.

A small picture, representing our Lady's Assumption, and the Apostles, by Francesco Naldini. This was the sketch of a celebrated picture now in Florence.

Our Saviour's Circumcision; an original sketch, by Polidoro da Caravaggio.

A picture in light and shadow, representing Diana and nymphs in the bath, changing Acteon into a Stag; an original beautiful sketch. The figures are a foot high, by Nicolo dell' Abate.

A small sketch for a ceiling in light and shadow, by Correggio.

Our Saviour's Supper, a small and most beautiful performance, by Innocenzo da Imola. He was one of Raphael's best disciples.

A Venetian history, by Paulo Veronese. This is an original sketch of one of the large pictures painted by Paolo in the Sala del Consiglio, at Venice.

A Boy's Head, as big as the life, by Annibal Caracci.

Diana's

Diana's Head, as big as the life, by Camillo Procaccini.

St. Catharine, a foot and a half high. A celebrated and well-preserved performance, by Benvenuto da Garofolo.

A Landscape, exhibiting the hunting of the hare; a beautiful work, by Gobbo de Caracci.

Adam and Eve driven out of Paradise by the angel. The figures one foot high. A famous and well-preserved work, by the Cavaliere Giuseppe d'Arpino.

The head of a Woman smiling, smaller than life, by Leonardo da Vinci.

A Child's Head, smaller than the life, by Fra. Bartolomeo di San Marco.

The pale of an altar, with figures bigger than the life, representing St. Lucy, St. John the Evangelist, St. Humphrey, and St. Francis. A famous performance, by Correggio, except St. Humphrey's figure, which, having been left unfinished by Correggio, was afterwards finished by Spagnoletto.

The family of the Caracci's represented in a butcher's shop, and those celebrated painters in butchers dresses. Annibal is weighing some meat to a Swiss of the Cardinal of Bologna's guard. Agostino is shaking a nail, and trying if it holds fast, that he may hang on it a leg of mutton which he holds in his left hand. The Gobbo is lifting up a calf to hang it on a beam, and Lodovico stoops down killing a sheep. The mother of them is represented as a servant maid that comes to buy some meat. The likenesses are traditionally said to be wonderful; and the whole of this no less odd than beautiful picture was the most celebrated performance of Annibal Caracci.

Three half figures as big as the life, representing three ladies diverting themselves with music, and a gentleman listening to them. In all probability they were portraits, by Titiano.

A sketch of one of the most capital pictures in Venice, and preserved there in a church. It represents our Blessed Lady, with St. Peter and St. Francis, and a Venetian General of the Capello's family come back victorious from a battle against the Turks, who offers the standard and the trophies of his victory to the altar of our Lady. The whole Capello family is exhibited in this picture: a celebrated work, by Titiano.

A Landscape with Figures. It represents part of the country near Bologna, by Domenichino.

A Woman representing Simplicity, with a dove in her hand; a half length, as big as the life, by Francesco Furino.

The

The Good Samaritan; the figures are two feet high; a valuable picture, by Sisto Badalocchi.

Our Lady with her Babe, about 2 feet high, painted much after Correggio's manner, by Sebastian Ricci.

The head of a youth, a little smaller than life, by Raphael.

Two small pictures, exhibiting two different martyrdoms of two Saints, by Giacomo del Po.

A small sketch, by Ciro Ferri.

A picture, exhibiting Our Saviour's Nativity. The devotion and maternal affection of our Blessed Lady looking on her babe, is prodigiously well expressed. St. Joseph stands admiring the compunction of two shepherds contrasted by another that takes care of the ass. Of two other shepherds, placed at some distance, one holds a light in his hand, and shews the other the manger, expressing a pious wonder. Further off there is a most beautiful angel in the clouds proclaiming the birth of Our Saviour to the shepherds. No picture ever surpassed this most elaborate performance of Titiano.—It was one of King Charles the First's collection; and there are two prints of it, an ancient one in wood, the other in copper-plate.

Another

Another Nativity, painted likewise with his usual delicacy and noble expression, by the same Titiano.

Our Lady with her babe in her arms; near as big as life, standing on the clouds, supported and attended by cherubs and angels. Under it there is a sight of the town of Bologna, and adjacent villages, all painted in his best manner, by Annibal Caracci.

Susanna tempted by the two old men, boldly and vigorously painted as big as the life, by Agostino Caracci.

The Slaughter of the Innocents, containing 19 figures as big as the life. A master piece both for composition and colouring, by Valerio Castelli.

Two children bigger than the life, representing Holy Love the conqueror of Prophane Love; one of the best performances in his first manner, by Guido Rheni.

A lively figure of an Italian Buffoon drinking merrily, an half figure, as big as the life, by Annibal Caracci.

The portrait of some nobleman, a little more than a half length, by Francesco Forbido, commonly called Il Moro Veronese. This painter was much admired by Titian himself.

A Nativity

A Nativity of Our Saviour. The figures about one foot high. The effect of the light that shines out of the babe, and irradiates the whole picture, is astonishing. This is a celebrated piece, by Cavalier Cavedone.

A Head as big as the life, representing Our Saviour, painted in a bold manner, by Agostino Caracci.

Apollo in the attitude of Flaying Marfyas. The figures about two feet high, by Andrea Sacchi.

Two small pictures, the one representing a mountebank drawing a tooth to a clown, surrounded by many spectators; the other exhibiting many people playing at balls upon the ground. By Michael Angelo delle Battaglie.

A small picture, containing our Lady and her Babe. St. Joseph, and St. Catharine, half figures, finely painted, by Bartolomeo Schidone.

A small picture, representing an angel that contemplates, with a most afflicted look, one of the nails with which Our Saviour was crucified, holding it up in his hand; by Correggio.

A most beautiful sketch, representing Our Saviour laid in the Sepulchre, with the Virgin, who has swooned, and is supported by the three Marys, by Giacomo da Bassano.

Four

Four small pictures, containing some figures two feet high, most masterly painted, by Francesco Mazzuoli, called Il Parmigianino.

A small picture with many figures, representing Our Saviour shewn to the people by Pilate. A noble performance, by Federigo Barocci.

A small picture, representing Our Saviour appearing to Mary Magdalen in the Gardener's form, by Raphael's master Pietro Perugino.

The infant Jesus and St. John embracing. An excellent performance, and well preserved, by Raphael.

Three heads in water-colours, bigger than the life, by Raphael.

A head of Joseph of Arimathea, as big as the life, by Federigo Barocci.

A half length, a little smaller than the life, representing St. Catharine. A rare ancient picture, by Vettori Carpaccio.

Our Lady with her Babe and St. John. The figures two feet high. An incomparable performance of Andrea del Sarto.

A Nativity

A Nativity of our Saviour, containing 18 figures 2 feet high. The posture of our Lady who offers her breast to her Babe, and that of the babe itself, are most graceful; St. John with them completes one of the best groups that the art of painting ever produced; and equally graceful is another group of three angels playing upon musical instruments. Two other angels descending from heaven in an attitude of adoration. Many more beautiful attitudes of devotion are those of the Shepherds, that fill up the left side of this astonishing performance of the immortal Raphael.

Our Lady with her Babe, St. Catherine and St. Francis. The proportion of the figures two feet. An excellent and well preserved performance of Paolo Veronese.

The view of a noble Temple, our Saviour coming out of it, meets with Magdalen, who is by him converted in the presence of some other women. An excellent and well preserved performance, done in his first manner, by Andrea del Sarto.

Two half lengths as big as the life of two women, one the mistress, the other her maid. The mistress was probably a portrait. She holds the looking glass with one hand, and with the other adjusts her head, listening to the maid that speaks

speaks to her. This is one of the best works of Domenichino.

Our Lady with her Babe, the Magdalen, St. John, and St. Jerom. The figures are about 3 feet high, painted with the greatest gracefulness, by Parmigianino.

A Cupid drawn by two Doves in a golden Carr, and two other Cupids playing about him encircled by a Flower Garland. A picture extremely well preserved, as well as masterly done, by Domenichino.

A Copy of the famous Nativity known under the name of Correggio's Night; the figures two feet high, by Carlo Cignani.

Diana in the bath converting Acteon into a Stag, with her nymphs about her. An elegant composition nobly coloured, the figures a foot and a half, by Tintoretto.

The communion of the Apostles, the figures a little above 2 feet. There is a kindled lamp in this picture, which has a striking effect, and the whole is painted with great vigour, by Tintoretto.

St. John preaching in the desert, beautified with many well-disposed figures, by Gobbo de Carracci.

The

The fable of Erictonius delivered to the nymphs to be educated. Their fear and wonder in spying the boy's serpentine feet, and their different attitudes, are most beautifully expressed. Each figure is about half the bigness of nature, and painted with great spirit, by Salvator Rosa.

A Landscape, exhibiting Moses delivering from the snares of the Shepherds, the daughters of Reuel, the Priest of Midian, that came to give drink to their cattle, by Domenichino.

Another small landscape, exhibiting some Fishermen, and women washing linen, by the same Domenichino.

A youth little less than life, that plays upon the Guitar, with a boy behind that listens with pleasure to him. By the celebrated Spanish disciple of Titian, Fernandos.

A half length, representing our Lord tempted in the desert, by Titian.

Two most beautiful Cherubs heads as big as the life, by Domenichino.

A St. John's head with a Lamb, as big as the life, in his best manner, by Guercino da Cento.

Marsyas and Apollo, with Midas that sits as their judge. The figures about a foot high:
a fine

a fine performance both for invention and colouring, by Andrea Schiavone.

A copy of the famous Correggio's Cupid as big as the life, by Annibal Carracci.

An Ecce Homo, as big as the life, painted with great force of expression, by Ludovico Caracci.

Our Lord laid in the Sepulchre, the figures a little more than a foot; another noble work of Lodovico Caracci.

St. Francis in a vision supported by angels. The figures about two feet high, admirably well painted, by Annibal Caracci.

A little Landscape, adorned with some pretty little figures, and it looks as if painted after nature, by Gobbo de Caracci.

A Venus and Cupid as big as the life. An astonishing performance, by Titiano.

A copy of the celebrated pictures of Raphael in the Roman Vatican. This represents an achievement of the Emperor Constantine. This copy appears to be the work of some great painter of the Florentine School, being done in the most masterly manner.

A Choir of Angels playing on several musical instruments, their proportion about a foot and a half a half. God the Father supported by three Cherubs, by Guido Reni.—This is thought to be the original sketch of a picture done in fresco by Guido in St. Gregory's church at Rome.

The Martyrdom of St. Erasmus, the figures about two feet high. This is the original sketch of the famous picture preserved in St. Peter's at Rome, by Nicolo Poussin.

Two pictures adorned with many beautiful figures, whose proportion is about two feet. One represents the age of iron, the other of copper; and they are the original models of the two pictures in fresco, that are in the palace of Pitti at Florence, by Pietro da Cortona.

The original sketch of one of the ceilings painted in the Barberini's palace at Rome, by Pietro da Cortona. It represents many allegorical figures.

A half length portrait as big as nature. The figure has a letter in one hand, by Lodovico Caracci.

The portrait of Maria Robusti; a half length as big as nature, by Paris Bourdon.

The picture of a Woman as big as life, half length, by Giorgione da Castel Franco.

A Head, with part of the shoulders, representing a Greek Merchant, as big as the life, by Michael Angelo da Caravaggio.

Our Lady with her babe, and St. John ; the figures near as big as the life. An excellent performance, by Titiano.

A half length with the hands, representing Diogenes the Cynic ; masterly done, by Spagnoletto.

A half length portrait of Himself, by Tintoretto.

A portrait, down to the knee, of the celebrated Naugerius, as big as the life, by Tintoretto.

The Nativity of Our Saviour, enriched with many beautiful figures about one foot high, by Francesco Zuccarelli.

A Cartoon in water-colours, representing the Holy Family. The figures near as big as the life, by Andrea del Sarto.

An Emperor on horseback ; the horse white, the proportion about two feet ; a bold and noble work of Giulio Romano.—It was once in King Charles the First's collection.

A finished sketch of King Charles the First's white horse, its proportion about two feet, by Vandyke.

The Slaughter of the Innocents, and Herod on a throne commanding it, by Bourgognone.

Ariadne abandoned by Theseus, a naked figure as big as the life, by Francesco Furino.

ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE.

The figures of Charles I. and his Queen in niches in the quadrangle were cast by Francis Fanelli, and are well designed. They were the gift of Archbishop Laud, and were buried in the civil war.

The middle part of each end of the quadrangle is ascribed to Inigo Jones.

In the Hall St. John the Baptist, by Titian.

MAGDALENE COLLEGE.

The two windows near the altar by William Price the son. In the West window of the chapel are some remains of glass painted in chiaro oscuro: the subject is the Resurrection. Each of the side windows contains six figures almost as large as life, of Primitive Fathers and Apostles. The altar-piece was performed by Isaac Fuller: it represents the Resurrection. Underneath is another piece of our Lord bearing the Cross, supposed to be the work of Guido. It was taken at Vigo; and being brought into England by the Duke of Ormond, came into the possession of William Freeman, Esq. of Hamels, in Hertfordshire, who gave it to the Society.

In the Hall are four whole length portraits of the Founder William of Wainfleet, bishop of Winchester, Dr. Butler, William Freeman, Esq. and Prince Rupert; and two whole lengths of bishop Warner, and Dr. Hammond.

MUSIC SCHOOL.

A Portrait of Nicholas Lanier, the Musician Painter and Engraver in the time of Charles I. By Himself. He has a pallet and pencils in his hand, and music notes on a scrip of paper.

NEW COLLEGE.

The windows on the South side of the Chapel are painted by William Price the Son; each window represents eight figures of Saints and Martyrs with their symbols, as large as life.—The painting over the altar, representing the Salutation of the Virgin, is by Mr. Henry Cook.

At the East end of the Hall are portraits of William of Wykeham, William of Wainfleet, and Henry Chicheley Founder of All-Souls College.

The POMFRET STATUES, &c.

Placed in one of the Schools, were collected by Thomas Howard, Earl of Arundel; they came into the hands of the Dutcheſs of Norfolk, who was divorced, and by her were ſold to the laſt Earl of Pomfret's father: the Counteſs Dowager gave them to the Univerſity.

- 1 A Statue of a Grecian Lady, 7 feet high, wants arms.
- 2 Ditto of Archimedes, 7 f. 2 inch. high, wants an arm.
- 3 Ditto of a Roman Emperor, 7 f. high, wants one arm, and the noſe.
- 4 Ditto of Minerva, 9 f. high.
- 5 Ditto of a Roman Emperor, 7 f. high, wants an arm.
- 6 Ditto of Cicero in the proper habit, 6 f. 9 inch. high.—The drapery very maſterly. He has the Sudarium in the right, and a ſcroll in the left hand. The character of the countenance ſettled indignation, in which he ſeems preparing to ſpeak.
- 7 Statue of a Grecian Lady. 7 f. high, wants arms.—The drapery falling over the right leg is finely conducted.

- 8 A Delphic Colonn, with the capital and base; and an Apollo that stood at the top, 24 f. 6 inch. high.
- 9 Statue of Sabina, 6 f. 9 inch.
- 10 A Venus de Medicis.
- 11 A Square Roman Altar, 1 f. 6 in. by 1 f. 3 inch.
- 12 Terminus of Pan, 5 f. 7 in. high, wants an arm.
- 13 Statue of Minerva, 5 f. high, wants an arm, and the Nose.

- 18 Statue of Cljo sitting, 4 f. 6 in. wants an arm and hand.
- 19 A Circular Roman Altar, 2 f. 4 in. high.
- 20 Statue of a young Dacian, 4 f. 3 in. high—Perhaps Paris. It is of great antiquity.
- 21 A Roman Altar, 2 f. 4 in. high.
- 22 Statue of Antinous, 5 f. 6 in. high, wants a finger, and the right hand.
- 23 A Grecian

- 23 A Grecian Lady, 4 f. 8 in. high, wants an arm.
- 24 Statue of Jupiter and Leda, 3 f. 10 in. high, wants arms.
- 25 An Antique Capital, 1 f. 6 in. by 2 f. wants a corner.
- 26 A Circular Pedestal finely ornamented with Heads and Festoons of Fruit, 3 f. by 1 f. 3 in diameter.
- 27 Statue of Scipio Africanus, or Demosthenes, 7 f. high. — The drapery is a very bold style. It is probably of some Orator, the right hand being laid on the breast in a persuasive posture.
- 28 Ditto of a Woman cloathed, 3 f. 8 in. wants a head.
- 29 A Trunk of a Woman, 2 f. 1 in. high.
- 30 A Boy, with his finger in his mouth, 2 f. 5 in. high.
- 31 Statue of Jupiter sitting, 3 f. high. wants a hand.
- 32 Ditto of a Woman, 3 f. 4 in. high.
- 33 The Trunk of a Woman, 2 f. 1 in. high.
- 34 Germanicus's Tomb, 7 f. by 1 f. 8.
- 35 Two Capitals with Beasts Heads, 2 f. 3 in. high.

- 36 An Ægyptian Chair, 2 f. 5. by 1 f. 8. belonging to a Priest of Isis and Osiris.
- 37 A Stone carved, with a claw at the end, 2 f. 7, by 2 f. 6.
- 38 Statue of a Roman Consul, 7 f. high, wants a hand, and fingers of the other.
- 39 Ditto of a Woman, 4 f. high, wants the head.
- 40 Ditto of Flora, 3 f. 10 in.
- 41 Ditto of Hercules, 4 f. high, wants hands.
- 42 Ditto of Diana, 4 f. 8 in. high, wants arms.
- 43 Ditto of Cupid sleeping, 5 f. 6 in. high.—
The Lizard may be a device for the name of the Sculptor, unless allegorical.
- 44 Ditto of Venus half naked, 4 f. high.
- 45 A Circular Altar, 2 f. 6 in. high.
- 46 Statue of Melpomene sitting, 4 f. high.—
Perhaps it is Agrippina, in the character of Melpomene.
- 47 A Circular Roman Altar, 2 f. 10 in. high.
- 48 A Grecian Lady, 4 f. 8 in. high, wants arms.
- 49 A Circular Roman Altar, 2 f. 8 in. high.
- 50 Statue of Camilla, 6 f. 5 in. high.
- 51 Ditto of a Grecian Philosopher, 5 f. high,
wants the right arm,

52 A Circular

- 52 A Circular Roman Altar, 2 f. 2 in. high.
- 53 A Statue of Caius Marius, 6 f. high. It has a noble severity.
- 54 Ditto of Bacchus naked, 4 f. 2 in. high. A delicate piece of sculpture. The hand is added with much address by Guelphi, from whom are all the modern additions.
- 55 A Circular Roman Altar, 2 f. 2 in. high.
- 56 Statue of Julia, 6 f. 9 in. high, wants the arms.
- 57 A Roman Fathom, 6 f. 10 in. by 2 f.

THE THEATRE

Was erected from a design of Sir Christopher Wren in 1669, at the expence of Archbishop Sheldon. The roof is covered with allegorical painting; in the room are three full-length portraits of Archbishop Sheldon, the Duke of Ormond mond, and Sir Christopher Wren. There is a good statue of king Charles II. on the outside of the circular part.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE.

The windows in the chapel are richly painted by Henry Giles, 1687.

WADHAM COLLEGE.

The East window of the Chapel is painted by Bernard Van Linge in 1622; it represents the passion of our Lord, and is said to have cost 1500*l*. The drawing is pretty good, and the colours are fine.

Sir GREGORY PAGE, Bart.

THE House is a magnificent edifice built in the modern taste, consisting of a basement state and attic story. The wings contain the offices and stables, which are joined to the body of the house by a colonade; the back front has an Ionic portico of Four columns: it

Lord SCARSDALE

IS building a most magnificent palace by Kedleston, near Derby. The Architect is Mr. Adams, the well-known Editor of the Ruins of Dioclesian's Palace. Every thing is fitting up in the most sumptuous manner, and finishing in the highest taste. Of the pictures which are already placed, take the following very imperfect catalogue, till a better can be obtained.

In the Dining-Room.

Dead Game and Dogs. An excellent picture in high preservation, by Snyders.

A Landscape, with a Public-house and figures, by Teodon.

An

An Historical Piece, by Zuccarelli.

Birds, by Barlow.

Two Landscapes, by Zuccarelli.

Still Life: a fawn, peacock, &c. by Snyders.

The Saloon

Terminates in a grand dome at top, finished like the Pantheon.

An old Man with a flapped Hat and Ruff, by Rembrandt.

Bacchus and Ariadne, a capital picture, by Luca Giordano.

Landscape with Figures, by Tempesta.

Figures and Cattle, by Bassan.

Joseph interpreting Pharaoh's Dream, by Rembrandt, in his best manner.

Bacchus and Ariadne, two single figures, by Guido.

Holy Family, by Raphael.

Adam and Eve, by Dominico Feti.

Landscape, by Claude Lorrain.

Marcus dead, by Paul Veronese.

Coriolanus, Ditto.

Orlando rescuing Armida, by Caracci.

A Sleeping Cupid, by Guido.

The Flight into Egypt, by Polemburg.

Holy Family, by Carlo Maratti.

Andromeda, by Guido.

Landscape, by Wilson.

Ditto, with Rocks and Asses, by Berghem.

Ditto, by Dieff.

S T O W,

The Seat of the Rt. Hon. the Earl TEMPLE.

THE Southern entrance of the Gardens is formed by two light pavilions of the Doric order, designed by Sir John Vanbrugh.

Almost the first striking object that occurs, is an Obelisk near 70 feet high, designed for a Jet d'Eau, and placed in the middle of a large octagon piece of water. At some distance we perceive two rivers, which are at last united, and enter the octagon in one stream. Over one of these is a Palladian Bridge. From this point a Gothic Gothic edifice dedicated to Liberty, 70 feet in height, appears on the top of a hill. On the left is an Egyptian Pyramid; from whence we are conducted to the Cold-Bath. Here we have a prospect of a natural cascade, falling from the last-mentioned octagon, in three distinct sheets, into an extensive lake. One of the sheets passes through the arch of an artificial ruin, covered with ever-greens.

I shall now proceed to give a circumstantial and distinct display of each remarkable particular, as it severally and successively presents itself, in our progress through the Gardens.

The Hermitage, built of rough stone, and agreeably situated in a rising wood on the banks of the lake.

The statues of Cain and Abel, which are finely executed.

The Temple of Venus, with the inscription
Veneri Hortensi.

It was designed by Kent, and is painted with the story of Hellenore and Malbecco, by Sleter. It is adorned in the front with the Busts of Nero, Vespasian, Cleopatra, and Faustina. Over the frieze is the following motto, alluding to the Painting, from a poem ascribed to Catullus:

Nunc amet, qui nunquam amavit;
Quique amavit, nunc amet.

The Belvidere, or Gibbes's Building. Underneath it is an Ice-house.

The Roman Boxers, admirably copied.

Two Pavilions. One of them is used as a dwelling-house; the other is ornamented with the statues of Julius Cæsar, Cicero, Portia, and Livia.

The Ægyptian Pyramid, which is 60 feet in height, with this inscription :

“ Inter plurima hortorum horum ædificia a Joanne Vanbrugh, equite, designata, hanc Pyramidem illius memoriæ sacram voluit Cobham.”

Within is the following inscription from Horace ;

Lufisti fatis, edifti fatis, atque bibifti,
Tempus abire tibi eft ; ne potum largius æquo
Rideat & pulfet lasciva decentius ætas.

The statues of Hercules and Antæus, situated in a field, enclosed with a fence of stakes, after the military manner.

St. Augustine's Cave, a monastic cell, built with moss and roots. Within is a straw couch, and the following inscriptions ; which are extremely happy in the stile of the old Monkish Latin

Latin verse, and said to have been composed by Mr. Glover, the ingenious author of Leonidas.
 On the right hand,

Sanctus Pater Augustinus,
 (Prout aliquis divinus Narrat) contra sensualem,
 Actum Veneris lethalem,

 Similem puellam vivæ,
 Arte mira conformabat,
 Quacum bonus vir cubabat:
 Quod si fas est in errorem
 Tantum cadere doctorem;
 Quæri potest, an carnalis
 Mulier potius, quam nivalis,
 Non sit apta ad domandum,
 Subigendum, debellandum
 Carnis tumidum furorem,
 Et importunum ardorem?
 Nam ignis igne pellitur,
 Vetus ut verbum loquitur.
 Sed, innuptus, hac in lite,
 Appellabo te, marite.

On the left,

Apparuit mihi, nuper in Somnio Mulier cum nudis & anhelantibus molliter Papillis & hianti suaviter Vultu cheu! benedicite!

Cur gaudes; Satana, muliebrem sumere formam?
 Non facies Voti casti me rumpere normam.
 Heus! fugite in Cellam; pulchram vitate Puellam;

Nam Radix Mortis fuit olim Fœmina in Hortis.
 Vis fieri fortis? Noli concumbere Scortis.

 Filius Ecclesiæ Origines fortasse probetur;
 Esse Patrem nunquam se sine Teste probet.
 Virtus Diaboli est in Lumbis.

The following fronts the Doors:

Mente pie elatâ, peragro dum dulcia Prata,
 Dormiit, absque docto, pulchra Puella solo;
 Multa ostendebat, dum semisupina jacebat,
 Pulchrum Os, divinum Pectus, aperta Sinum.
 Ut vidi Mammæ, concepi extempore Flammas,
 Et dicturus ave dico, Maria, cave:
 Nam magno totus violenter turbine motus
 Pæne illam invado, pæne & in ora cado.
 Illa sed haud lente surgit, curritque repente,
 Currit et, invito me, fugit illa cito.
 Fugit Causa Mali, tamen Effectus, Satanali,
 Internoque meum, cor vorat Igne reum.
 O inferne Canis, cur quotidie est tibi Panis,
 Per Vîsus miros sollicitare Viros?
 Cur Monachos velles fieri tam Carne rebelles,
 Nec castæ Legi turbida Membra regi?

En tibi jam Bellum dico, jam triste Flagellum
 Esuriemque paro, queis subigenda Caro.
 Quin abscindatur, ne Pars sincera trahatur,
 Radix, quo solus nascitur usque Dolus.

The Temple of Bacchus, an edifice of brick.
 Its inside is adorned with Bacchanalian scenes, painted by Nollikins. Among the rest are two vases touched in a masterly taste. Some of the smaller figures, in particular, demand our attention. A small Obelisk, with this inscription;

“To the memory of Robin Coucher.”

The Saxon Temple: an altar situated in an open grove, about which the seven Saxon Dei-ties, which denominate the several days of the week, were formerly placed; but these have been since removed to the Gothic Temple.

Nelson's Seat. This is an elegant little building, from whence there is an agreeable open prospect: In the inside are the following inscriptions, explaining the paintings, in which the boys fixing the trophies are elegantly fancied. On the right hand,

Ultra Euphratem & Tigrim
 usque ad Oceanum propagatâ ditione, Orbis Terrarum Imperium Romæ adsignat optimus Princeps,
 cui super advolat Victoria

Laurigerum fertum hinc inde

The Equestrian Statue of King George I. in complete armour, placed at the head of the Canal, opposite the North front of the house, with this inscription from Virgil:

In medio mihi Cæsar erit. ———

Et viridi in Campo Signum de marmore ponam Propter Aquam.

The Statue of his late Majesty, raised on a Corinthian Pillar, with this inscription:

Georgio Augusto,

Dido's Cave; a retired dark building, with this inscription from Virgil;

Speluncam Dido, dux & Trojanus, eandem,
Deveniunt. ———

The

The judicious spectator will observe, that the figures of the two Cupids joining their torches are finely painted.

The Rotunda, supported by Ionic pillars, and designed by Sir J. Vanbrugh. Within, is a statue of Venus de Medicis on a pedestal of blue Marble. Scarce any object in the whole garden shews itself to more advantage, than this structure; or makes a more beautiful figure, from several different points of prospect.

The Statue of the late Queen, erected on four Ionic columns, and situated in a rural amphitheatre; with this inscription:

Honori, Laudi, Virtuti, Divæ Carolinæ.

The Sleeping Parlour; a square building with an elegant Ionic portico, situated in a close wood, with this inscription;

Cum omnia sint in incerto, fave tibi.

The Witch House; a square building. The paintings on the walls are done by the late lord's gentleman; and, rude and inartificial as they may seem, are much in character.

The Temple of Modern Virtue; in ruins.

The Temple of Ancient Virtue; a complete and beautiful Rotunda of the Ionic order, designed ed by Kent. Over each door, on the outside, is this motto:

Prisca Virtuti.

In four niches within, standing at full length, are the following statues.

1. Epaminondas.

Cujus a virtute, prudentia, verecundia,

Thebanorum respublica

Libertatem simul et imperium,

Disciplinam bellicam, civilem et domesticam,

Accepit;

Eoque amisso, perdidit.

2. Lycurgus.

Cum somno cum consilio inventis legibus,
Omnemque contra corruptelam munitis optime,

Pater patriæ,

Libertatem firmissimam,

Et mores sanctissimos,

Expulsa cum divitiis avaritia, luxuria, libidine,

In multa secula

Civibus suis instituit.

3. Socrates.

Qui corruptissima in civitate innocens,

Bonorum hortator, unicus cultor Dei,

Ab inutili otio, et vanis disputationibus,

Ad

Ad officia vitæ, et societatis commoda,
Philosophiam advocavit,
Hominum sapientissimus.

4. Homerus.

Qui poetarum princeps, idem et maximus.
Virtutis præco, et immortalitatis largitor,
Divino carmine.

Ad pulchre audendum, et patiendum fortiter,
Omnibus notus gentibus, omnes incitat.

Over one door is this inscription;

“Carum esse civem, bene de republica mereri, laudari, coli, diligi, gloriosum est; metui vero, & in odio esse, invidiosum, detestabile, imbecillum, caducum.”

And over the other door.

“Justitiam cole et pietatem, quæ cum sit magna in parentibus & propinquis, tum in patria maxima est. Ea vita via est in cælum, & in hunc cætum eorum qui jam vixerint.

Apollo and the Nine Muses.

Here we cross the Serpentine River, whence we pass into the Elysian Fields; a most delicious retreat, in which is placed;

The Temple of the British Worthies.

This

This edifice is disposed into niches, filled with the following bustos.

Pope, without any inscription.

Sir Thomas Gresham, who by the honourable profession of a merchant, having enriched himself, and his country, for carrying on the commerce of the world, built the Royal Exchange.

Ignatius Jones, who, to adorn his country, introduced and rivalled the Greek and Roman architecture.

John Milton, whose sublime and unbounded genius equalled a subject that carried him beyond the limits of the world.

William Shakespeare, whose excellent genius opened to him the whole heart of man, all the mines of fancy, all the stores of nature; and gave him power, beyond all other writers, to move, astonish, and delight mankind.

“ John Locke, who, best of all philosophers, understood the powers of the human mind, the nature, end, and bounds of civil government; and with equal courage and sagacity, refused the slavish systems of usurp'd authority over the rights, the consciences, or the reason of mankind.”

Sir

Sir Isaac Newton, whom the God of Nature made to comprehend his works; and from simple principles, to discover the laws never known before, and to explain the appearance, never understood, of this stupendous universe.

Sir Francis Bacon, Lord Verulam, who, by the strength and light of a superior genius, rejecting vain speculations, and fallacious theory, taught to pursue truth, and improve philosophy by the certain method of experiment.

In the niche of a pyramid is placed a Mercury, with these words inscribed;

Campos ducit ad Elyfios.

And below this figure is fix'd a square of black marble with the following lines;

*Hic manus ob patriam pugnando vulnera passi,
Quique pii vates, et Phæbo digna locuti,
Inventas aut qui vitam excoluere per artes,
Quique sui memores alios fecere merendo.*

King Alfred, the mildest, justest, most beneficent of kings; who drove out the Danes, secured the Seas, protected learning, established juries, crushed corruption, guarded liberty, and was the founder of the English constitution.

Edward

Edward, Prince of Wales, the terror of Europe, the delight of England; who preserved, unaltered, in the height of glory and fortune, his natural gentleness and modesty.

Queen Elizabeth, who confounded the projects, and destroyed the power that threatened to oppress the liberties of Europe; took off the yoke of ecclesiastical tyranny; restored religion from the corruptions of Popery; and by a wise, a moderate, and a popular government, gave wealth, security, and respect to England.

King William III. who, by his virtue and constancy, having saved his country from a foreign master, by a bold and generous enterprise, preserved the Liberty and Religion of Great Britain.

Sir Walter Raleigh, a valiant soldier, and an able statesman; who, endeavouring to rouse the spirit of his master, against the ambition of Spain, fell a sacrifice to the influence of that court, whose arms he had vanquished, and whose designs he opposed.

Sir Francis Drake, who, through many perils, was the first of Britons that adventured to sail round the globe; and carried into unknown seas and nations, the knowledge and glory of the English name.

John

John Hampden, who, with great spirit and consummate abilities, begun a noble opposition to an arbitrary court, in defence of the liberties of his country; supported them in parliament, and died for them in the field.

Sir John Barnard, without any inscription.

On the back side of this building is the following inscription :

To the Memory of

S I G N I O R F I D O,

An Italian of good extraction;

Who came into England,

Not to bite us, like most of his countrymen ;

But to gain an honest livelihood.

He hunted not after fame,

Yet acquired it.

Regardless of the praise of his friends ;

But most sensible of their love.

Tho' he liv'd amongst the great,

He neither learn'd nor flatter'd any vice.

He was no bigot ;

Tho' he doubted of none of the 39 articles.

And, if to follow nature,

And to respect the laws of society,

Be philosophy,

He was a perfect philosopher ;

A faithful friend ;

An agreeable companion ;
 A loving husband ;
 Distinguished by a numerous offspring :
 All which he lived to see take good courses.
 In his old age he retir'd
 To the house of a clergyman in the country,
 Where he finished his earthly race,
 And died an honour and example to the whole species.

The Shell Bridge.

The Chinese House, situated after the Chinese manner, upon a large piece of water: We enter it by a bridge, decorated with Chinese vases; It is a square building with four lattices, and covered with sail cloth. The windows and roof, together with its cool situation on the lake, afford us a just specimen of the manner of living in a hot country. Within is the figure of a Chinese lady asleep. The outside of the house is painted in the Chinese taste, by Mr. Slater: The inside in India Japan work.

The Temple of Contemplation.

The Grotto, situated at the head of the Serpentine River, furnished with a great number of looking-glasses, both on the walls and cieling, fixed in frames of plaister-work, stuck with shells and flints. It has a marble statue of Venus on a pedestal adorned in the same manner. On each side is a Pavillion; one of which is ornamented with shells, the other with broken flints and pebbles.

The Ladies Temple, supported by groin arches, with Venetian windows. The inside is beautified with the following Paintings by Sleter: On the right side, Ladies employed in needle and shell-work. On the opposite side, Ladies engaged in painting and music.

The Grecian Temple. A large pile of the Ionic order after the manner of the Temple of Minerva at Athens.

The Gothic Temple, with this inscription;
 Je rends graces aux Dieux de n'être pas Romain.

This

This is a spacious edifice of red stone, terminated with towers and pinnacles, 70 feet high, and placed on the summit of a hill. The windows are of glass curiously stained, and the inside of the dome is characteristically decorated with the arms of his Lordship's family, from their rise to the present time. About it are the seven statues, which, as was mentioned before, originally surrounded the Saxon Altar.

The Palladian Bridge, adorned with several antique marble busts. The roof on the side facing the water, is supported by Ionic pillars. The back wall is covered with a fine piece of Alto Relievo, which represents the four quarters of the world bringing their various products to Britannia. Here are also paintings of Sir W. Raleigh, with a map of Virginia; and of Sir William Pen, presenting the laws of Pennsylvania, by Sleter.

The Imperial Closet; a square room, in which are painted, by the last-mentioned artist, three of the worthiest of the Roman Emperors; each of which is respectively distinguished by a memorable saying of his own, fixed over him; as follows;

IMP. TITUS CÆS. VESPASIAN.

Diem perdidit. —

The Temple of Friendship; a well-proportioned structure of the Doric order. The emblem of Friendship above the door, those of Justice and Liberty, with the rest of the decorations, are elegantly touched. Britannia is seated upon the ceiling. On one side are exhibited the glory of her annals, the reigns of Q. Elizabeth and Edward III. On the other is offered the reign of which she covers with her mantle, and seems unwilling to accept. This painting is executed by Sleter. The motto of this Temple is,

. Amicitia S.

Here are the busts of the late Lord, and his illustrious friends, Frederic Prince of Wales; Earls of Westmoreland, Chesterfield, and Marchmont; Lords Cobham, Gower, and Bathurst; Rd. Grenville, Wm. Pitt, and G. Littleton, Esqrs.

The

The Pebble Alcove, a little Grotto, ornamented with Pebbles; in which likewise his Lordship's arms are curiously wrought on the back wall.

Congreve's Monument; the embellishments of which are emblematical of the Poet's comic genius. On the top is placed a Monkey viewing himself in a mirror, with this inscription:

Vitæ imitatio
Consuetudinis speculum, Comædia.

The Poet's Effigies lie in a careless posture on one side, and on the other is placed the following epitaph;

Ingenio

The spectator, whose mind is capable of being moved either with Grace or Majesty, cannot, without reluctance, leave a place so properly calculated to inform the judgement, and interest the fancy; where art appears without affectation, and nature without extravagance.

W I L T O N,

The Earl of PEMBROKE'S.

IN the court, before the grand front of the house, stands a column of white Egyptian Granite, out of the Arundel collection. The shaft weighs betwixt 60 and 70 hundred weight, of one piece. It has a fillet 5 inches broad below, and another at top, 3 inches broad, which project but half an inch. The height is $13\frac{1}{2}$ feet, the diameter 22 inches, and lessens scarce two inches at top. It had a hole both at top and bottom, which shows that it anciently stood as a single pillar.

The statue of Venus, standing on its top, Lord Arundel valued much, because it was the only one cast from a model made at Rome, proportionable to some parts remaining of the broken

broken antique. This Column was never erected since it fell in the ruins of old Rome, till set up here, with a Corinthian Capital and Base of white marble, which makes the Column, eight diameters, the whole, with all its parts, is 32 feet high.

On the lower Fillet of this Column are five letters, which having the proper vowels supplied, make ASTARTE, the name by which Venus was worshipped among the antient nations of the East.

In the Front of the House on each Side of the Entrance.

Two Statues in black Marble, out of the ruins of the Palace in Egypt, in which the Viceroys of Persia lived many years after Cambyfes returned to Persia, from the conquest of Egypt. There is a garment on their shoulders of different coloured marble, and only their toes appear at bottom. There is the old Diadem on one of them.

In the Great Gate-way.

A Statue of Shakespeare, (by Scheemaker) in the same manner as in Westminster-Abbey, only the lines on the scrole are different, these are out of his Macbeth.

Life's but a walking Shadow, a poor Player,
That struts and frets his hour upon the Stage,
And then is heard no more!

This Gate-way and Tower were begun by William Earl of Pembroke, in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and finished by his son Henry Earl of Pembroke. The said Earl William received, from King Henry the Eighth, a grant of Wilton-Abbey, &c.

In the Middle of the Inner Court.

In four niches of a Pedestal (whereon stands a Horse as large as the life) are four Statues; the first of Jupiter Ammon from Thrace, not only with Ram's Horns, but with a whole Ram on his shoulders; it came out of the Temple, said to be built there by Sesostris.

On the right Hand, is the Father of Julius Cæsar when Governor in Egypt.

The next is Plautilla, the wife of Caracalla, dressed like Diana the Huntress.

The Fourth is Clio the Muse.

In two painted Niches are two Statues; the first is Attis, Cybele's high Priest, clothed as a Woman (a).

In the other Niche is a Statue of Autumnus, with Autumn Fruits.

On one Side of the Gate-way.

The Busto of Pan.

On the other Side.

The Busto of Olympias, Mother of Alexander the Great.

In the Porch, built by Hans Holbein, leading into the Vestibule.

The Bustos of Hannibal, Pescennius Niger, Albinus, Miltiades.

Here are two Columns of the Paionet (or Peacock) marble, each 9 f. 7 in. high, made use of for Urns. There are holes at the top to put ashes in; they were in the Columbarium of a nobleman and his wife, and the inscription over them, which was in the wall signified, that they had made that Columbarium.

In the Middle of the Vestibule.

The Statue of Apollo, out of the Justiniani Gallery. He appears with a most graceful air in a resting posture, having hung his Quiver on the laurel with many ornaments of very fine Sculpture.

In the Dining-Room.

On the Chimney-piece, which is by Inigo Jones, are the Bustos of the Emperor Pertinax, and of Solon.

Going into the Drawing-Room is,

An antique Pavement, four Sorts of Marbles of gradual Lights and Shadows, as it Cubes stood upon a Plane. This, in the Arundel Catalogue, was said to be found under some Ruins at Luna, a Roman City, about 60 miles East of Genoa.

In the Drawing Room.

Four Children, representing our Saviour, an Angel, St. John, and a little Girl. The Angel is lifting a Lamb to St. John, who has his left hand upon it, and is in discourse with our Saviour, as they are all fitting close together. Behind our Saviour is a Tree, and a Vine growing up it, with Grapes thereon. The Girl (representing perhaps, symbolically, the Christian Church) has hold of the Vine with one hand, and in the other has a Bunch of Grapes, which she is offering to our Saviour.

Variety of Fruits, Vines growing up a Pomegranate-Tree, and two Vintage People, as big as the life; the young Man looks down on the young Woman whilst he is gathering some fruit for her; and as he reaches up to the Twig, his shirt slips down from one shoulder, and naturally shews his skin there not to be tanned. Michael Angelo, the Painter of this picture, was famous for travelling figures; of which sort one may see, at a distance, a Man driving an Ass. Sir Robert Gere gave Michael Angelo's Widow three three hundred pistoles for this picture, it being a favourite picture, which her husband always kept for himself. He himself too painted the Figures, that are as big as the life. In most of his pictures, the figures, as big as the life, are put in by other painters, Michael Angelo della Battaglia.

The Angel and young Tobias, who has hold of the Fish in his left hand; the Dog is behind them. At the bottom, Tobias putting the heart and liver of the Fish upon the Coals, makes a smoke therewith, to drive away the Evil Spirit. The figures very neat and fine, and the Landscape part very beautiful, by Adam Elsheimer.

St. John preaching in the Wilderness; small neat figures Rowland Savory.

Our Saviour and Mary in the Garden Gentilesco.

A Charity with three Children. It was one of King Charles the First's Pictures Guido.

A Nativity on Copper, neatly finished Rubens.

The three Kings Offering. There are Horses and many Figures, at several distances, of this Painter's best colouring, with a glorious light breaking through the Clouds, in which are many many Cherubims, That King, who has a strong Light on his forehead, is the painter himself Paolo Veronese.

The Virgin, our Saviour, and St. John

Barocci.

The Decollation of St. John, by Dobson. This Painter is an honour to the English Nation. The picture is so finely painted, and with such strong expressions as to make him inferior to few of the best Italian masters. King Charles I. called him the English Tintoret. Sir Peter Lely reckoned this the chief historical picture that he did.

The Virgin, with Christ in her arms, in the Clouds Pordenone.

The Assumption of the Virgin Mary. This was in the Collection at Mantua, and well known in Italy to be one of the first that Raphael made. He painted it for his Master Perugino; the upper part is in his manner; several of the Apostles looking up; many of the Postures, and the manner of Cloathing he has kept to in several of his Figures since. One of the twelve is at a distance, hastening down a Hill to the rest, by Raphael.

The

The Angel as speaking to Tobias about the fish, which is swimming up to them. The dog is between Tobias's legs, barking at the fish, by Procacino.

A Landscape with figures dancing Poelembourg.

Our Saviour carrying the Cross Andrea del Sarto.

Some Market-people Crespi.

The Virgin with Christ Solari.

Hercules and Dejanira Giovanni Montoano.

The Virgin with Christ and Joseph Fr. Imperiali.

In the Great Hall.

STATUES, BUSTOS, and SARCOPHAGUS's.

Faustina, wife of Antoninus Pius, larger than the life ; the drapery very good.

A Pantheon, having the symbols of three divinities, a Cornucopia with fruit for Vertumnus ; out of it, grapes for Bacchus ; and a sea-fish for Neptune. The figure is a comely man in the prime of his strength and age, without any beard, and therefore is probably an Apollo, larger than the life.

One of the labours of Hercules. He is represented as turning the river Achelous, who is figured as an old man, his thighs end in snakes to signify the winding of the river.

In a Niche. Antinous.

A Busto of Marcus Aurelius, when Cæsar.

A Busto of Portia, wife of Brutus. The picture of Brutus on her breast, a necklace about her neck, and a diadem on her head ; being the only one known with a picture.

A Sarcophagus adorned in the front in alto relievo, two Cupids holding two festoons of fruits ; over each festoon are two heads of the Heathen Deities ; under one of the festoons is a lion

a lion and an ox, under the other a goat and a cock (a).

Upon the foregoing tomb is Euterpe the muse, sitting with a flute, very fine sculpture, by Cleomenes.

A Busto of Didia Clara, daughter of Didius Julianus. Her right hand is holding up part of her cloathing; two little Cupids at the bottom of the busto.

The busto on the chimney-piece is of Thomas Earl of Pembroke, who collected the antique marbles.

A busto of Nero. The shape of his left arm and hand seen through his robe, two little Cupids at the bottom of the busto.

A Sarcophagus. In the middle of the front is a circle, wherein is represented the half lengths of a man and a woman, for whom it may be supposed the tomb was made; the other part of the front is fluted work; at one end is a Lion with a Unicorn under him; at the other end a Lion, with a wild Boar under him; at the bottom, under the circle, are two masks, one of them bearded, the other having a veil upon the upper part (b).

(a) See Salvini, tab. vii.

(b) Ibid. tab. viii.

A Queen of the Amazons, beautiful, though in a warlike action, being on one knee, as under a horse, defending herself in battle. To illustrate the action the sculptor has carved a horse's foot. Her buskin plainly shews the ancient shape and manner of fixing it; by Cleomenes.

A busto of Lucilla, the wife of Elius, very fine sculpture.

In a Niche. Mercury.

A busto of Apollo.

Hercules, not long before he died. He leans ready to fall, and looks very sick, and Pæan his friend looks up at him very much concerned. The expression of the muscles anatomists greatly admire.

Silenus and Bacchus, a group, very fine.

Flora. This, and the foregoing one, (both of the Parian marble) were a present to the first Philip Earl of Pembroke, by the Duke of Tuscany, who, in King Charles the First's time, was in England, and resided at Wilton, with the said Earl, three weeks.

The bustos of Lyfimachus, Lepidus and Phocion.

A Sarcophagus adorned with a fine column of the Corinthian order at each end; in the middle ble is graved a double door, partly open, which confirms what ancient authors have said, that some were so made that the soul might go out to the Elysian fields. At each end of the tomb is a Griffin. Salvini, tab. x.

The bust of Marcia, the first wife of Sept. Severus.

The busto of Cato Major.

The busto of Labienus Parthicus.

A Sarcophagus. In the middle are represented three figures, Meleager religiously turning something off from a Patera into the fire on an altar; at his feet lies the head of the Calydonian boar; by him is Atalanta with a quiver hanging from her shoulders. The third is Theseus.

The ancients often devoted themselves, when they died, to some divinities, as here to these. The whole bodies of two persons, perhaps a man and his wife, seem to be buried here, because there is a little rising at each end for their heads. This sepulchre is also adorned with two whole length figures of Castor and Pollux at the two ends. Salvini, tab. ix.

The busto of Pompey the Great.

The busto of Brutus Senior.

In the Gallery of this Hall are five suits of armour; that in the middle was William Earl of Pembroke's, the other four and the parts of five more suits in the lower part of the Hall were taken from the following noble persons, on the following occasion. This Earl, in the reign of Queen Mary, was Captain-General of the English forces at the siege of St. Quintin, at which siege were taken prisoners the Constable Montmorency, Montheron, his son, with the Dukes of Montpensier and Longueville, Lewis of Gonzaga, (afterwards Duke of Nevers) the Marshal of St. Andre, Admiral Coligny, (who was afterwards murdered in the massacre at Paris) and his brother, not to mention John de Bourbon, Duke of Anguien, who was found dead among the slain. Here are also some of the weapons which were taken at the same time.

At the bottom of the Brown Stair-Case.

A Colossal Statue of Hercules. His action is to shew one of his labours; he looks with an air of satisfaction that he has compassed the taking of the Golden Apples, three of which he shews in one hand. This is not in a resting posture as that of Farnese.

The tomb of Aurelius Epaphroditus.

This monument is one of the finest and most instructive that hath been ever seen. The excellence cellence of the work, and correctness of the design would easily inform us it must be a piece of some Greek artist, even though the place where it was first discovered did not. It is a Tomb near Athens, which was discovered by some travellers, who brought it over into France to present it to Cardinal Richlieu.

The Tomb is of white Marble, 6 feet 4 in. long, and 2 feet broad, and about the same height, taking in the cover which is about 2 inch. $\frac{1}{2}$ thick; the cover is raised about 1 foot higher before, and is adorned with some Figures in Bas-Relief, which relate to the History represented below. The inner Superficies of the Tomb is plain, with a rising of about one inch in the place where the head of the deceased should rest.

This is the Epitaph,

Θ. Κ. ΑΥΡΗΑΙΩ ΕΠΑΦΡΟΔΕΙΤΩ

ΣΥΜΒΙΩ ΑΝΤΩΝΙΑ ΒΑΛΕΡΙΑ ΕΘΗΚΕ (a).

That is, to the Gods the Manes. Antonia Valeria hath made this tomb for Aurelius Epaphroditus her husband.

(a) M. de Bonze, Secretary of the Academy of Belles Lettres, a skilful Antiquary, hath given a very ingenious and learned Explication of this Monument.

There stands upon this Tomb a Colossal Bust of Alexander the Great, of the best Greek Sculpture, Medusa's Head is on the Breast-plate, a Lion's Face appears on the Helmet, which has a particular Crest on it.

Under the Tomb last mentioned,

A little Statue of a crouch'd Bacchus.

A small Tomb supposed for Children, there are two Cupids on the front, supporting a circle which projects; under the circle are two Baskets lying sidewise with fruit in them; a Lion at each Basket as going to devour the fruit; at the ends of the front are two more Cupids; they look very sorrowful with one hand upon their breast, the other hand holding a Torch with the lighted end downward, there is a Griffin at each end of the Tomb. A Statue of Cupid lying asleep upon the aforesaid Tomb.

In the two Windows of the Stair-Case, and in four Niches (one on each Side of the Windows) are Six Statues.

In the first window is the statue of Livia, wife of Augustus, bigger than the life, sitting in a Chair, one hand supported by a Patera, to shew that she was honoured as Pietas, in which character

character she is also seen on a Medal, the Drapery very natural.

In the Niche on your left Hand.

Saturn with a Child smiling on his hands as it looks up at him.

In the Niche on your right Hand.

Bacchus clad with an intire Skin, the head of which appears on his breast, his Sandal is fixed in a manner differing from others.

In the other Window.

The statue of Didia Clara, daughter to Julian, bigger than the life, sitting in a Chair; she holds a senatorial Roll in a genteel posture; the drapery of her cloathing very fine.

In the Niche on your left Hand.

A Shepherd playing on the Flute, admired for the action of his Fingers, a Goat standing by him.

In the other Niche.

The Foster Father of Paris, with the Phrygian Bonnet and Shepherd's Coat of Skins.

The busto of Cleopatra, Alexander the Great's Sister.

The statue of Diana; she has a Crescent on her head, holds part of a Bow in her left hand, and takes an Arrow with her right out of her Quiver.

A statue of Ceres, a Cornucopia in her right hand, in her left she holds Ears of Corn and a Poppy; a very genteel Figure and fine Sculpture.

The busto of Mutidia, daughter of Marciana.

On the Opposite Side.

The busto of Possidonius, Preceptor to Cicero.

The statue of Andromeda chained to the Rock.

The statue of Mercury with all his three Symbols, Wings, Caduceus, and a Purse in his hand held up; he has Wings also at his heels as well as at his head.

A statue

A statue of a Boy ; he is dancing and playing on Musick.

The busto of Heraclitus.

In the Window.

A square Urn of the Emperor Probus and his Sister Claudia ; their names are in a square in the centre of the front ; there are Festoons at the sides of the Inscription ; over it is an Eagle standing upon a Festoon of Fruits, from out of whose wings come two Serpents ; they are folded up in ringlets, with their heads directed towards the head of the Eagle ; at the bottom is a Tripod with a Griffin on each side of it ; at each Angle of the front is a wreathed Column ; the Angles next to the back part are fluted Pilasters, between which and the Columns is a Laurel Tree ; in the Pediment of the cover are two Birds, that hold in their bills the ends of a string which tyes a Wreath of Laurel ; on the top of the cover are, in Alto-Relievo, the Emperor and his Sister.

On the right Hand of the Window are the Bustos of

Isoocrates, Sulpitia Poeta in Porphyry, Persius the Poet, Seneca, and Pythagoras.

On

On the other Side.

Colatinus, fellow consul with Brutus.

The Billiard Room.

The left hand, on a white Marble Table, three statues.

Pomona sitting in a Chair on a Cushion.

A Figure recumbent, leaning on a Sea Dog, and representing the River Meander, Hercules killing the Serpents.

In the first Window.

The statue of Mark Anthony, the Orator, very much admired.

BUSTOS between the first Window and the second.

Tullia, daughter of Cicero.

Julia Domina, wife of Septimus Severus,

Alexander Severus.

In the middle Window.

The statue of Bacchus, very fine ancient Sculpture, adorned in a particular manner with Poppies, the Poppies hang as a belt from both shoulders as low as the knees.

BUSTOS

BUSTOS between this Window and the next.

Galba, Geta, Lucius, Vitellius Pater.

In the third Window.

The statue of Venus, standing in a very genteel easy posture, holding a Vase, which she has emptied, resting her elbow of that Arm on a Pillar.

On the other Side of the third Window.

The Busts of Nerva, Arfinoe the mother, and Cælius Calvus.

On a white Marble Table of the same Length of that on the other Side of the Room, are three Statues.

Hercules wrestling with Antæus.

A very fine Greek statue of a River, represented by a beautiful Naiad sleeping on the Bank, with a genteel turn of her body, the Linen covering her very decently; 'tis a River in Egypt running into the Nile, because in the front an Ibis appears about the running water, which has seized a young Crocodile.

A young Bacchus smiling, Grapes growing up a Tree.

On

On the Chimney Side, seven BUSTOS; they are,

Horace the Consular, Drusilla, Ptolomy brother of Cleopatra, Pallas, Ænobarbus, a Priest of Cybele, Lysias the Orator.

Over the last, the Virgin and our Saviour

Il Frate.

In the Window is the Statue of Ihs. She has the Flower of the Lotus on her head. She is in a position bending, and her whole Legs and Arms appear round, not as commonly in Egyptian statues, which were strait and formal, shewing only the Feet. This was reckoned the oldest, and (by the Mazarine Catalogue) the only one known with that improvement. It is a Group, for she holds, betwixt her Knees, Osiris, her husband, in a Coffin open, in one of whose hands is a Pastoral Staff, crooked at the end as a Shepherd's. In the other hand he has an Instrument of Discipline like a whip, the Symbols of Power to protect and punish. On his head is

is the antientest Diadem or Mitre, being triple, yet not as the Pope's Crown, but rather like the Mitre of Bishops, only with three points instead of two at the top; Orus, her Son, is about her Neck. There are a great Multitude of Hieroglyphicks quite round the bottom, and behind the statue.

Over Philip, Earl of Pembroke, the Money-Changers and People with the Doves in the Temple Feti.

When you enter the South Front towards the Garden (which whole Front is a beautiful Building of Inigo Jones) pass through the Cube Room into the Hunting Room, the last Room at the Western End of that Front, and then begin from the Busts on your left Hand.

Julia, incomparably fine Greek sculpture, and (as several others in this collection) of Parian marble. She was wife to Agrippa, daughter of Scribonia, third wife to Augustus.

Antonia, wife of Drusus the elder. The linen of this bust is very natural.

Berenice the mother ; her hair in a particular manner.

Balbinus.

The next are two statues, then proceed on with the busts.

Faunus finely twisting his body by looking down over his shoulder at his Leopard, by Cleomenes.

Cupid, when a man, breaking his bow after he had married Psyche, by Cleomenes.

Plotina, wife of Trajan. Berenice the daughter.

Annia Faustina, third wife of Heliogabalus ; very fine like that of Antonia.

Mago, the famous Carthaginian.

Titus, Faunus, Jupiter, Julia daughter of Titus.

On a Yellow Antique Marble Table.

A Group, Cupid and Ganymede ; Ganymede is sitting and resting against the stump of a laurel. It is rare to see the distinct form of the seven pipes, as here expressed. Cupid is very attentively looking on and reaching his hand out toward the pipes, as if to instruct Ganymede how to play.

On

On the pannels of the Wainscot are painted eighteen different sorts of Hunting, by Tempesta, Junior.

Bustos in the Cube Room.

Begin on the Left Hand coming out of the Hunting Room.

Massinissa King of Numidia, with the African bonnet on his head, the upper parts of two Dragons, and the head of Medusa on his breast-plate.

Aventinus son of Hercules, the head of a Lion's skin, making the covering for his head, and the two fore paws tyed in a knot upon his right shoulder; an elegant performance.

Iotape, wife to Antiochus Comagena.

On a Porphyry Table.

Apollonius Tyanæus, the head and bust of one piece of marble. It is very lively in the attitude, his arm is tucking his garment about him.

On a Porphyry Table.

Poppea, Nero's second wife, her right hand is holding up part of her garment.

Semiramis, at the bottom of the bust are two little Cupids.

Lucanus, the head and bust of marble, fine sculpture.

Cæsonia, the busto all of transparent alabaster, fourth wife of Caligula.

Augustus, of Parian marble.

On a Jasper Marble Table are the following three things.

A Nuptial Vase, representing the whole ceremony of a Greek Wedding, from the beginning of the sacrifice to the washing of the bride's feet; it is very fine work.

The Statue of Diana of Ephesus; the head, hands, and feet black, the rest white marble, as described by Pliny.

A Roman Urn, variety of very fine work all round it, of figures, foliages, birds, &c.

Prusias King of Bythia, excellent sculpture, pairs with that of Augustus.

Metellus no beard, by a very fine Greek sculptor, all of a piece down to the navel; the only one which shews the ornament of a chain, which is of very rich work; on his breast-plate is an elephant, a laurel quite round the outside of it, the consular medal with an elephant on the reverse, the head of that is bearded, supposed to be a divinity, with the name only of Metellu

Metellus ; the elephant is in memory of the victory he gained over Jugurtha, King of Numidia, upon which he obliged him to deliver up all his elephants to the Romans.

Messalina, fifth wife of Claudius, of hard saline marble ; she has a confident air agreeable to her character ; the marble of her cloathing very naturally represents a fine striped silk.

Octavia, the first wife of Nero, of fine coloured marble, her head dress also very fine, with leaves and ears of corn bound round upon her hair. This bust, and that of Poppea, are both very curious.

On a Marble Table (the Produce of Mount Edgcomb) are the five following things :

An ancient Greek triangular altar to Bacchus ; on one side Silenus holds a torch inverted in his right hand, in his left a basket full of fruit ; on another side is an attendant of Bacchus dancing with one foot up, and a Thyrsus in his right hand ; in his left hand a bowl and the skin of a beast on his arm ; on the other side is a Bacchus dancing in a long thin garment.

Upon this altar stands a little statue of Bacchus, with grapes and with the snake, the peculiar symbol of the Egyptian Bacchus, who invented medicine, and was said to be the Sun and Apollo.

An Alto Relievo of Pyrrhus, the son of Achilles ; it is an oval, and has a splendid aspect as of a very large gem, the face is porphyry, which the Cardinal Mazarine so much valued as to finish his dress with a helmet of different coloured marble.

A square altar, each of the sides has a divinity, Jupiter, Mars, Diana, and Juno ; this was one of those altars for a private room.

Upon this altar stands a little statue of an ancient priest with a Phrygian cap, sacrificing a hog to Isis.

Vespasian, Trajan, Tmolus an ancient Lawgiver and founder of a colony in the time of Apollo, fine sculpture and much adorned ; this stands upon a grey granite table which belonged to a temple, and was for the sacrificing of lesser animals, as birds, &c. that the blood might not run over the edges ; it has a remarkable channel as big as to lay one's finger in, round the utmost edge of the four sides of the flat next the moulding, and in the middle of one of the channels is a hole for the blood to run through.

Claudius, Pyrrhus King of Epirus, with a noble air ; it has a dragon on the helmet, and on his breast-plate there is a head with wings ; it is like the head of a bat.

On the same side are four pictures, begin with the lowest.

King Richard II. &c. An elegant representation of the King (in his youth) at his devotion, painted on two tables. In one he is represented kneeling by his three patron saints, St. John Baptist, King Edmund, and King Edward the Confessor, having a crown on his head, clad in a robe adorned with white Harts and Broom-Cods, in allusion to his mother's arms, and his own name of Plantagenista. Thus he is praying to the Virgin Mary with the infant in her arms
(on

(on the other table) surrounded with Christian virtues, in the shape of angels, with Collars of Broom-Cods about their necks, and white Harts on their bosoms; one holding up a banner of the cross before them, and on the ground are lillies and roses.

St. John Baptist holds a Lamb in his left arm; K. Edward the Confessor holds a ring between the thumb and fore-finger of his left hand; King Edmund holds an arrow in his left hand; all their right hands are directed to King Richard, as presenting him to Our Saviour, who inclines himself in a very kind manner towards them. There are eleven angels represented each of them having a wreath of white roses round their heads. The disposition of their countenances, and action of their hands, is designed to shew that their attention is employed about King Richard. On the Glory round Our Saviour's head you may see the cross represented in it, and round the extremity of the orb are small branches of thorns. On two brass plates on the bottom of the picture is engraved Invention of Painting in Oil, 1410.

This was painted before (a), in the beginning of Richard II. 1377. Hollar engraved and dedicated it to King Charles I. and calls it Tabula

The Half Length of a Gentleman, supposed to be Prince Rupert, by Vandyke.

On an antique Marble Table.

Marcus Aurelius on Horseback, made at Athens, and so esteemed that the Sculptor was sent for to Rome to make that which is there in copper as big as the life. The person is in the same posture, but this a Macedonian horse, small, and of marble; to prevent the breaking, Cardinal Mazarine had one side cemented to a marble, which comes out at the bottom, squared as a pavement, on which the horse is as walking.

The Corner-Room.

Begin with that over the Door next to the King's Bed-Chamber.

Narcissus seeing himself in the water. There are seven Cupids in various actions, by Poussin.

upper one betwixt the Window and the Door.*

The Discovery of Achilles Salviati.

In the Arundel catalogue it is said, that his lordship desired Rubens to paint for him a fine finished closet-picture, which is this picture, being on an old Flemish board, most beautifully coloured. There is a group at bottom of nine angels, all in different postures, as raising the cloud under the Virgin Mary. There are several pretty cherubims heads at the side and at the top. It so much pleased Rubens that he said he would make a great picture after it, which he did at a church in a convent at Antwerp, where he has added apostles, as big as the life.

Belshazzar's Feast. A multitude of figures. A great astonishment appears, in all the company at the table, by Old Frank.

Judith putting Holofernes's head into a scrip, which is held open by her maid, by Mantegna.

On the other Side of the Window, begin at the lowest.

Our Saviour about two years old, sitting on a stone, a lamb is standing by him and licking his hand, in which he holds a string which is tied to the leg of a dove, which sits in a little open-worked basket. There are two other figures. The rays from the glory round our Saviour's head strike a fine light upon them. One of them has her hand upon the Dove, by Paola Mattei.

Christ from the Cross, two Boys holding up the Arms, and the Virgin devoutly stretching out her hands. At a distance appear the three crosses, and a group of little figures with a horse. It was made for Henry II. King of France, which he gave to his mistress, Diana Valentinois, and therefore two Vs. are on a palat hung on one of the trees, and on the painted flat frame, in one corner are the arms of France, in another a monogram of the first letters of their names; the other two corners the emblems of Diana, three half moons in one, a quiver and bow in the other.

A Madona, very fine, with seven stars round her head

The Garden-Side, begin on the Left Hand of the Window.

Bacchus on an Altar in the Wood, many figures about it celebrating his mysteries, and shewing a great spirit, in different, postures. The light darts through the wood in a most agreeable manner.

Salvator Rosa.

An Assumption of the Virgin.

On the other Side of the Window, begin with the biggest.

Ceres standing with a most genteel air, holding up Wheat. Given by the Duke of Parma to the Earl of Peterborough, when he conducted James the Second's queen to England, by Parmegiano.

Christ taken from the Cross, ten other figures with strong expressions of the solemnity. The Virgin has her right hand under our Saviour's head, as lifting him up, while Joseph of Aramathea (who is richly dressed) is wrapping the linen-cloth round him. Behind Joseph are two men, one of them has the superscription in his hands, and the crown of thorns upon his arm; the other is as talking to him, pointing with one hand to the Virgin and the other towards Joseph. On the other side is St. John with his hands folded together, and shews great concern. Mary Magdalene is wiping off the blood, and wrapping the linen round our Saviour's feet. Mary, the sister of the Virgin is as speaking to Nicodemus, who is as giving directions about the spices. Behind them are two men, one holds the nails taken from the cross, the other holds the hammer and pinchers. Here is also the tomb shown, and the people rowling the stone from the entrance of it, and mount Calvary, Calvary, with bones and skulls scattered about where the crosses stand, with the view of the multitude returning into Jerusalem; at a distance a landscape, with rocks, &c. Albert Durer.

Tithonus, Divinity of the Morning.

Venus

Venus of Medici.

Bacchus, very beautiful Work.

Crispina Wife of Commodus.

Fauna, (the female Divinity of Faunus is very rare.)

A Pantheon of a peculiar Marble, and in the old Termini way, it has the Symbols of Ammon, Mavors, and Thoth.

Epicurus, valued by Cardinal Mazarine, there being no other of him.

Achilles, adorned at the Breast, having Rams on his Helmet, a young Face, small and very neat work.

This room is the East end of Inigo Jones's Building, the whole of which is esteemed a very compleat piece of Architecture. From the windows of these apartments is the following view. The Garden, or rather a beautiful Lawn, planted with various trees. The River which Earl Henry much enlarged. The Bridge which the said Earl built from Palladio's design. Between some fine large Cedar trees, a fall of water by the Stable Bridge. A Piazza (the front of the stables) by Inigo Jones. A Wood in the Park upon a Hill, on which stands in one part, a thatch'd House, in another, an equestrian Statue of Marcus Aurelius upon an Arch; the prospect prospect on that side being terminated with the Plain or Downs, on which are the Horse-Races. The Engine House, with two ornamented fronts, one front towards the house, the other towards the Park. The cold Bath, and upon it a compleat cast of the fine Statue of Antinous at Rome. An Arcade, the front of which was originally the front of a Grotto, by Inigo Jones. Not only the Spire, but the whole West front of Salisbury Cathedral. Clarendon Park and places adjacent.

At the Bottom of the Geometrical Stair-case.

The Urn of Horace, on one side of which is this Inscription.

DM

HOR. FLACC. PIIS MAR
PAMPH. MIN FA FECIT.

Diis Manibus Horatii Flacci, the other Letters to Fecit probably relate to the person who had the urn made, but they were defaced, and since mended, as they thought they saw the traces of former letters; the other part is the Apotheosis of a Lyric Poet. There is a Woman in a loose garment holding a burning Torch, as one of the Muses; another holds a Lyre in her left hand and a volume in her right, which she offers to a third Woman with large wings representing Fame: near them stands a great Altar adorned adorned with a crown; in an obscure corner sits a figure with his head reclined, which some think may be Momus or Zoilus; they are genteel figures and elegantly cloathed, it is Basso-Relievo.

In the Stone Hall.

Begin on the right Hand from the Stair-case.

A little Statue of a Boy, as darting himself to catch something on the Ground.

A Sarcophagus; in a round in the front is the busto of a Man; it is remarkable, 1st. That the physiognomy by the Sculptor is unfinished, as they purposely did to show that man could not hit the likeness of the splendor they appeared in after they were descended to the Elysium. 2dly. This has the ornaments of two Cornucopia's to show the plenty of fruits, &c. which they enjoy in the Elysian Fields. 3dly. The right hand appears with the two Fingers farthest from the Thumb depressed or debased, holding up the Thumb and the other two Fingers, as was the ancient custom when they saluted others and wished them happiness, as he is here supposed to do at his dying. 4thly. This is also distinguished by a little rising in the bottom at the head to show that it was to lay in the body whole.

Upon

Upon this Tomb is a Janus fixed on a Term.

An Alto Relievo, six figures, Nereides, and Tritons, and an horse.

A Basso Relievo, having an Inscriptio Boustropha, the writing in the successive lines going forward and backward; first from left to right, then from right to left; as they turn or guide oxen in the ploughing of lands. This was esteemed the most antient way of writing, and proves the great antiquity of this marble.

The statue of Apollo, of the finest Greek sculpture; he stands in a very genteel posture, with the middle of the bow in his left hand: it was found entire in the earth near Ephesus, in which were mix'd some minerals, which have given it a stain that makes it look like old ivory; his sandal is a fine representation of the antient shape and manner of fixing it.

An Alto Relievo, four Boys gathering and eating grapes.

The statue of Urania the muse, with her symbol cut on the plinth, with so reverend an air of old age, that Cardinal Mazarine would not suffer any part of it to be mended.

A very large Alto Relievo, weighing about a ton and an half, that was a freeze in a Greek Temple of Diana and Apollo; it represents the story of Niobe, and her children, &c. Her are seven Sons and seven Daughters supposed to be hunting in the heat; and being ill, the father, mother, &c. come out of the shade, in which they are, and save two of them; all the figures and trees, especially the Horses on which the Sons ride, are so high, as that the heads and necks stand off without touching the marble behind. The Forest Cithæron in Bæotia, in which they are hunting, is finely represented, and at a distance by some of the trees, Sylvanus, the Divinity of the Woods, sits looking on with a grave concern. Here are twenty figures; Sylvanus and three old Men, (the father and two uncles or tutors) and two old Women, (the mother and a nurse or aunt,) seven Sons, seven Daughters; also five Horses; two of the youngest Sons are on foot, as are the Daughters.
the

The statue of Sabina Wife of Hadrian, fine Drapery.

An Alto Relievo, Faunus playing on two Pipes.

The front of Meleager's tomb cut off from the rest, of fine Greek marble with thirteen figures, besides a Dog and the Boar's Head; the whole history is represented from the first quarrel about the Boar's head, till the burning of the fatal brand, and the carrying of him away to be entombed.

An Alto Relievo, the story of the Child stealing the Meat from off the Altar, through the Idol's mouth.

A small statue of Meleager, very fine Sculpture.

A large Alto Relievo, of a vestal Virgin.

An Alto Relievo, shewing the antient manner of eating; here Jupiter attended by Pallas is served by Hebe.

A small statue of Æsculapius.

In the Front of the Chimney Piece is,

An Alto Relievo of eight Figures, besides a Dog and a Goat.

The Basso-Relievo Room.

An old Greek Mosaick tessellated work, the pieces of Marble of various colours, not only flat, but rising as the figures; it represents the Garden of the Hesperides.

An Alto Relievo, Bacchus drunk upon an As, held on by a Man and a Woman, a Man leading the As. There are thirteen figures besides the As and a Goat.

An Alto Relievo, a Priestess bringing a Sheep for a sacrifice. There are two altars, upon one there is a Fire, on the other an Idol.

An Alto Relievo, the Story of Clælia.

An Alto Relievo, a Rape of Neptune. Twelve figures besides two Horses.

An Alto Relievo, Silenus drunk, the Boys binding his arms and legs with vine-twist. Ægle is painting his face with a Mulberry. Sixteen figures besides an As.

A Greek Relievo of the very finest work, an oriental alabaster. Eleven figures besides a Dog. Those on the foremost ground Alto Relievo: It is of Ulysses, who is gone into the Cave to Calypso, where they are kneeling round a Fire. The Cave is within, a most beautiful ruin of architecture, which has a fine freeze of figures, several of which are on Horses. The other figures are of Ulysses's attendants, and spectators, some of which are got upon the Ruins.

An Alto Relievo, Curtius on Horseback, leaping into the Earth which opens with a Flame of Fire. It is of the finest work by a Greek Sculptor.

An Alto Relievo, two Cupids, one looks angry at the other whose Bow he has broken, which makes the other whimper.

An Alto Relievo, Europa on the Bull. There are four other figures.

An Alto Relievo, a Rape of the Centaurs. Eight Figures.

An Alto Relievo, Galathea riding on the Sea in a Shell drawn by two Dolphins. There are three other Figures.

A Greek Alto Relievo of very curious fine work. It is a female Victoria: She has a wreathed Corona in each hand, which she holds holds over two Captives bound at her feet. There are a great many Weapons of War, with Armour and Ensigns, and a particular Trumpet.

An Alto Relievo, a Boy on a Sea-Horse, blowing on a Shell-trumpet.

An Alto Relievo, Venus, and Cupid sucking. She is sitting under a large rich carved Canopy. Mars is sitting by in rich accoutrements, by which we may distinctly see the antique manner of putting on all the parts, from the helmet to the very feet. There is a very particular emblem of a Cupid sitting, but his wings, tail and feet are like a Cock. At the bottom are two Doves billing, and a Cat defending herself from a Dog.

An Alto Relievo, Britannicus in Porphyry.

A very high Alto Relievo, of Marcus Aurelius and Faustina, as big as the life. This is upon a grey Moor-stone Table.

An Alto Relievo, two Cupids and four other Boys at Play.

An Alto Relievo, of Britannicus's Junia.

An Alto Relievo, Ariadne and Theseus. There are two other Figures and two Horses.

An Alto Relievo, Saturn crowning arts and sciences. Five Figures.

An Alto Relievo, Jupiter and Juno. Six other Figures bringing offerings.

An Alto Relievo, the three Graces.

An Alto Relievo, Diana with her favourite Stag, and two Dogs asleep.

An Alto Relievo, Endymion asleep, and Diana coming down to him.

An Alto Relievo, two Figures, one representing Painting, the other Sculpture; very fine Drapery.

A Basso Relievo, Apollo and Diana destroying of Nicbe's Children, by shooting Arrows at them. There are twelve Figures besides Apollo and Diana, and six Horses; very small neat work.

An Alto Relievo, Venus riding on the Sea in a Shell drawn by two Dolphins, attended by two Cupids. Above in the Clouds is her Chariot with two Doves.

An Alto Relievo, a Greek Woman dancing a Child upon her Foot, in Porphyry.

An Alto Relievo, Saturn, a small one, but very old, and of most beautiful work.

An Alto Relievo from a Temple of Bacchus. By the work it appears to have been in the time of the best Sculptors. What is remarkable is, that that the Thyrsus or Sceptre of Bacchus, has here the addition of Bunches of Grapes. There is a Vine shooting up from the bottom, which is of the very finest Sculpture.

Here are four Statues as big as the Life, and four small ones.

Venus picking a Thorn out of her Foot.

Cleopatra with Cæsarion, her Son by Julius Cæsar, sucking on her Lap. Her Seat is an Egyptian Improvement for softness, and so as to sit higher or lower as they pleased. The bottom has a Layer like short Bolsters, the next over them cross the contrary way, and so on to the height which they would sit. Her posture is very natural, and her locks hang gracefully on her Shoulders.

Venus holding a shell in her right hand, her left hand has hold of the tail of a Dolphin.

Venus and Cupid. He is begging for his shaft of arrows.

The little ones are upon four Terms.

Orpheus with his symbol.

Calliope, one of the Muses, with a roll in her hand; she invented Epic or Heroic Poetry.

Apollo with his three symbols, a Harp, a Quiver, and a Serpent.

Venus

Venus with a Dolphin at her foot.

Upon three little carved Trusses, three heads, two in bronze, young faces, the other a Janus.

Upon a table stained with figures and landscape. The statue of Venus asleep. It is about the bigness of the Hermaphrodite at Rome. It is a fine Greek sculpture, and appears much older than that, as is observed in the Cardinal's Catalogue.

R E L I E V O S.

Begin with that over the first Door:

An old Man like a Silenus, he is filling a basket with Grapes.

Then there are five between the Door and the Window, the three lower ones all relate to one subject.

A Bull with his head adorned with a mitre and fillets, the middle of his belly bound round with a ribband. He that sacrifices is naked with his head laureated, he leads the Bull with his right hand; the Popa, or Priest, follows behind laureated likewise, and clothed from the navel

to

to his knees ; in his right hand is a sacrificing olla or pct, and in his left hand is the ax.

Two Priests, or Ministers of the priest as going before the victim ; one of them is playing upon two pipes, the other stands laureated prepared to do his office, with an earthen chalice or simpulum in his right hand, and a patera in his left.

Jupiter sits on the right hand of Juno, on Mount Olympus, with a thunder-bolt in his right hand, and embracing her with his left, who embraces him with her right hand, both naked to the navel ; before them is a fire blazing upon an altar, and a priest standing shod, with a very long robe and bare-headed, casting something into the fire.

Cleopatra with the asp in a covered vase ; she is here represented as having it ready, but does not shew it.

The ornament of a pedestal belonging to a victor, it represents very particularly some of the ancient Greek Games. Here are several peculiar circumstances : Neptune, as the judge, is the only figure sitting ; Saturn stands behind ; at the end of the relievo is a handsome piece of architecture, something higher than the heads of the persons, and is as a portico to terminate the end of their running ; in it are Mars and Venus, minding each other only ; over them is a Cupid

a Cupid who has in his hand a peculiar light, not long as a torch, but as a lamp in the palm of his hand; two young men are running, supposed to have set out from the end where Neptune is, and one is almost got to the end terminated by the building; he has such a light in his hand as Cupid has. Antiquaries speak of the exercise of running in this manner with a light; the other young man, who is running after him, has an oar in his hand of the antique form; in the middle space of the place for the exercises, are two strong made men with beards; they shew another sort of tryal, not of motion (as the young men) but of strength; one of their hands is tyed to the other's two hands, in this it is supposed they took turns to try which could pull the other farthest after them.

Five on the other Side of the Window.

Two of the lower ones are of one subject, and from what is legible from the old Greek which is on them, it is thought they represent the ancient manner of taking leave of dying friends.

Two Men, one of them standing, the other sitting; their right hands joined together as bidding a happy adieu to each other.

A man and a woman in the same posture as the two men, the woman sitting.

Silenus

Silenus drunk upon an Afs, held on by two figures, a boy is leading the Afs and blowing upon a bull's horn; another boy sitting against a tree playing on a pipe; another boy has hold of the afs's tail; at some distance Venus is layed down asleep, Cupid has hold of some part of her garment to cover her therewith; higher up, a boy is gathering apples from a tree; on the back ground is a group of four boys, one of them is sitting and playing on a pipe, another is playing on a timbrel, the other two are dancing.

Venus wringing the water out of her hair.

The Head of Ramitacles, king of Thracia, as big as the life, in porphyry.

WINDSOR CASTLE

WAS built by William the Conqueror, and greatly improved by Henry I. King Edward III. caused the antient building to be taken down; erected the present stately castle, and St. George's Chapel; and inclosed the whole with a strong rampart of stone, great additions were made by several succeeding monarchs ; but king Charles II. entirely repaired the castle, and though it had greatly suffered in the preceding times of national disorder, restored it to its antient splendor.

This stately and venerable castle is divided into two courts or wards, with a large round tower between them called the middle ward. It is situated on a high hill, which rises by a gentle ascent, and affords a most delightful prospect: in the front is an extensive vale adorned with corn fields and meadows, with groves on each side, and the calm water of the Thames running through it; behind it are every where hills covered with woods.

On the declivity of the hill is a fine terrace faced with a rampart of free-stone 1870 feet in length: this may justly be said to be one of the noblest walks in Europe. From the terrace you enter a beautiful park, called the little or house park, which surrounds the palace and is four miles in circumference.

In the upper court of the castle is a spacious and regular square; containing on the north side the royal apartments, and St. George's Chapel and Hall; on the South and East the royal apartments, those of the Prince of Wales, and and the great officers of state. In the centre of the area is an equestrian statue in copper of king Charles II. in the habit of a Cæsar, standing on a marble pedestal, adorned with various kinds of fruit, fish, shipping, and other ornaments. On the East side is the following inscription on a shield :

CAROLO SECUNDO.

Regum optimo

Domino suo clementissimo

Tobias Rustat

Hanc Effigiem humillime

Dedit et Dedicavit,

Anno Domini MDC LXXX.

The Round Tower, which forms the West side of this upper court, contains the Governor's apartments, which are spacious and noble.

The lower court is larger than the other, and is in a manner divided into two parts by St. George's Chapel, which stands in the centre. On the north side are the several apartments of the Dean and Canon of St. George's Chapel, with those of the minor Canons, and other officers ; on the South and West sides of the outer part are the houses of the poor knights of Windsor. In this court are also several towers belonging to the officers of the crown, when the court is at Windsor, and to the officers of the order of the garter.

The entrance into the royal apartments is through a handsome vestibule, supported by columns of the Ionic order, with some antique busts in several niches; from hence you proceed to the great stair-case, which is finely painted with stories from Ovid's Metamorphoses. In the Dome Phaeton is represented desiring Apollo to grant him leave to drive the chariot of sun: in large compartments on the stair-case are the transformation of Phaeton's sisters into poplar trees, with this inscription:

Magnis tamen excidit ausis;

and Cygnus changed into a swan. In several parts of the ceiling are represented the signs of the zodiac supported by the winds, with baskets of flowers beautifully disposed: at the corners are the four elements, each expressed by a variety of figures. Aurora is also represented with her nymphs in waiting, giving water to her horses. In several parts of the staircase are the figures of music, painting, and the other sciences. The whole is heightened with gold; and from this stair-case you have a view of the back stairs painted with the story of Meliager and Atalanta.

Having

Having ascended the stair-case you enter first into the Queen's guard chamber, which is completely furnished with arms, disposed into various forms. On the cieling is Britannia in the person of Queen Catharine of Portugal consort to King Charles II. seated on a globe, bearing the arms of England and Portugal, with Europe, Asia, Africa, and America, attended by deities, making their several offerings. On the outer part of the group are the signs of the zodiac; and in different parts of the cieling are Minerva, Mars, Venus, and other heathen deities, with zephyrs, cupids, and other embellishments.

Over the chimney is Prince George of Denmark on horseback, by Dahl; with a view of shipping, by Vandewelde.

You next enter the Queen's presence chamber, where Queen Catherine is represented attended by religion, prudence, fortitude &c. she is under a curtain spread by time and supported by zephyrs, while fame sounds the happiness of Britain; below, justice is driving away envy, sedition &c. The room is hung with tapestry containing the history of the beheading of St. Paul, and the persecution of the primitive Christians.

The Pictures are,

Judith and Holofernes Guido.

A Magdalen Sir Peter Lely.

A Prometheus Young Palma.

In the Queen's audience chamber the cieling is painted with Britannia in the person of Queen Catherine, in a carr drawn by swans to the temple of virtue, attended by Flora, Ceres, Pomona, &c. with other decorations heightened with gold. The canopy is of fine English velvet, set up by Queen Anne; and the tapestry was made at Coblentz in Germany, and presented to King Henry VIII. The Pictures are,

A Magdalen by Moon-light Caracci.

St. Stephen stoned Rotterman.

Judith and Holofernes Guido.

On the cieling of the ball room King Charles II. is represented giving freedom to Europe by the figures of Perseus and Andromeda; on the shield of Perseus is inscribed Perseus Britannicus, and over the head of Andromeda is written Europa liberata, and Mars attended by the celestial deities, offers the olive branch. On the coving of this chamber is the story of Perseus and Andromeda, the four seasons, and the signs of the zodiack, the whole heightened with gold. The tapestry, which was made at Brussels, and set up by King Charles II. represents

In the Queen's Bedchamber, the bed of state is rich flowered velvet made in Spitalfields, by order of Queen Anne; and the tapestry, which represents the Harvest Season, was also made at London by Poyntz. The cieling is painted with the story of Diana and Endymion, and the room is adorned with the pictures of

The Holy Family Raphael.

Herod's Cruelty Giulio Romano.

Judith and Holofernes Guido.

The next is the room of beauties, so named from the portraits of the most celebrated beauties in the reign of King Charles II. They are fourteen in number, viz. Lady Ossory — The Duchess of Somerset — The Duchess of Cleveland — Lady Gramant — The Countess of Northumberland — The Duchess of Richmond — Lady Birons — Mrs. Middleton — Lady Denham and her sister — Lady Rochester — Lady Sunderland — Mrs. Dawson — Mrs. Knox. These are all original paintings drawn to great perfection by Sir Peter Lely.

In the Queen's Dressing-room are the following portraits — Queen Henrietta Maria, wife to King Charles I. — Queen Mary, when a child, and Queen Catherine; these three are all done by Vandyke. The Duchess of York, mother to Queen Mary and Queen Anne, by Sir Peter Lely.

In this room is a closet wherein are several paintings, and in particular, a portrait of the Countess of Desmond, who is said to have lived to within a few days of an hundred and fifty years of age; also a Portrait of Erasmus and other learned men.

Many of the paintings in this room are best seen at noon by the reflection of the sun : the carving of this room is very beautiful, representing a great variety of fowl, fish, and fruit, done on lime wood, by Gibbons.

In the King's Audience Chamber, the cieling represents the establishment of the church of England at the Restoration, in the characters of England, Scotland, and Ireland, attended by Faith, Hope, Charity, and the Cardinal Virtues ; Religion triumphs over Superstition and hypocrisy, who are driven by Cupids from before the face of the church, all which are represented in their proper attitudes and highly finished.—The pictures are,

Our Saviour before Pilate Michael Angelo.

The Apostles at Our Saviour's Tomb Schiavone.

The King's Presence Chamber is hung with tapestry, containing the history of Queen Althaliah : on the ceiling Mercury is represented with a portrait of King Charles II. which he shews to the four quarters of the world introduced by Neptune ; Fame declaring the glory of that prince, and time driving away Rebellion, Sedition, and their companions. Over the Canopy nopy is Justice in stone-colour shewing the arms of Britain to Thames and the River Nymphs, with the star of Venus, and this label, Sædus Carolinum, at the lower end is Venus in a marine carr drawn by Tritons and sea nymphs.—Portraits are, Henry Duke of Gloucester, brother to King Charles II. and his Governess the Countess of Dorset, both by Vandyke; and Father Paul, by Tintoret.

The King's Guard Chamber is a spacious and noble room, in which is a large magazine of arms. The ceiling is painted in water-colours: in one circle is Mars and Minerva, and in the other Peace and Plenty. In the Dome is also a representation of Mars. Over the chimney-piece is Charles XI. King of Sweden, on horseback, as big as the life, by Wyck.

In St. George's Chamber, King Charles II. is represented in the habit of the order of the Garter, in a large oval in the centre of the ceiling; he is attended by England, Scotland, and Ireland; Religion and Plenty hold the crown of these kingdoms over his head; Mars and Mercury, with the emblems of War and Peace, stand on each side. In the same oval regal government is represented upheld by Religion and Eternity, with Justice attended by Fortitude, Temperance and Prudence, beating down Rebellion and Faction. Towards the Throne is represented, in an octagon, St. George's Cross encircled encircled with the Garter within a star or glory supported by Cupids, with the Motto

HONI SOIT QUI MAL Y PENSE.

And besides other embellishments relating to the order, the Muses are represented attending in full concert. On the back of the state, or Sovereign's Throne, is a large drapery, on which is painted St. George encountering the Dragon, as large as the life; and on the lower border of the drapery is inscribed, in allusion to King William III. who is painted in the habit of the order, sitting under a royal canopy, by Kneller.

VENIENDO RESTITUIT REM,

The room is 108 feet in length, and the whole North side is taken up with the triumph of Edward the Black Prince.

At the lower end is a Music Gallery, supported by slaves, larger than the life. Over this gallery, on the lower compartment of the ceiling, is the collar of the order of the garter fully displayed. The painting of this room was done by Verrio, and is highly finished and heightened with gold.

On the ceiling of St. George's Chapel is finely represented our Lord's Ascension; and the altar-piece is adorned with a painting of the Last Supper. The North side is ornamented with with the representation of Our Saviour's raising Lazarus from the Dead, his curing the sick of the palsy, and other miracles, by Verrio, who, in a group of spectators, has introduced himself, with Sir Godfrey Kneller and Mr. Cooper, who assisted him in these paintings. The carved work is well executed in lime-tree, by Gibbons.

In a chapel in the South aisle is painted the history of John the Baptist; and in the same aisle are painted, on large pannels of oak, the Portraits at full length of Prince Edward, Son to Henry VI. Edward IV. Edward V. and Henry VII. In the North aisle is a chapel dedicated to St. Stephen, wherein the history of that Saint is painted on the pannels. At the East end of this aisle is the chapter-house of the college, in which is a portrait, at full length, by a masterly hand, of Edward III. in his robes of state, holding in his right hand a sword, and bearing the crowns of France and Scotland.
